Hospital Staff Trains For Fire

There was a hot time in the outdoor classroom Friday at City Hospital as nurses, student nurses and employes simulated evacuation of patients in case of a fire under the watchful eye of the State Fire Prevention Bureau.

These scenes show the drills three teams went through at the end of the eight-hour program presented by Roy E. Ricker of Youngstown, a fire prevention specialist.

In the top photo, Ricker watches the first of the teams move into a ward to remove three patients, extinguish the fires with blankets and then move on to fight other fires with fire extinguishers before attacking the largest blaze with a fire hose.

The nurse in the foreground prepares to use a blanket to extinguish one fire while at the left a student nurse uses another blanket to smother a fire in a bed. The nurse at the rear has smothered a fire and goes to the aid of the patient while at the right a nurse uses a hip carry to remove the third patient.

The first of the three teams required 2 minutes and 12 seconds to remove the patients and extinguish all the fires while the second team required 2:21. The best time was registered by the third team of a student nurse and three orderlies, which took only 1:38.

Ricker pointed out the times were good since the first two minutes is considered the most important part of fighting any fire.

The program included the chemistry of fires and requirements for extinguishing them and the fundamentals of 10 different "carries" and how to use them to remove patients.

The program was sponsored by the hospital, fire prevention bureau and city fire department along with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, Police Chief Americo Radeschi and James Walker, city Civil Defense director.

Mrs. Helen Bemis headed the program committee with Mrs. Ila Shingler, Miss Mary Paull, Mrs. Lucille Miraglata, Floyd Baker, Fred Hilliard and Asst. Fire Chief Alfred Van Dyne as members. Consultants were Miss Nell Robinson, hospital superintendent, Dr. Robert Dunlap, Dr. John A. Fraser and Fire Chief Charles Bryan.

Mike Farah Victim

Blast Fired From Auto Proves Fatal

Victim Once Ran Jungle Inn Casino In Warren Region

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Gray-haired Mike Farah, 56, long identified with Trumbull County racketeering, died of internal bleeding today about two hours after a shotgun blast fired from an automobile cut him down while he was swinging a golf club in his back yard.

The stocky Farah, who with his brother, John, once operated the notorious Jungle Inn gambling casino, died in the emergency room of Trumbull Memorial Hospital.

At first it appeared Farah had been hit only in the legs and was not seriously wounded, but some of the pellets penetrated his side and started fatal internal bleeding.

Farah's daughter Grace, 16, was in the yard and saw the shooting. Her father was about 30 feet from the curb when two or three shots were fired from a car described as a blue 1959 or 1960 Chevrolet.

Farah crawled to the side door of his house and up a half flight of steps into the kitchen where ambulance men found him gasping for air. An oxygen mask was put on him for the two-block ride to the hospital, and this prevented his talking with the attendants.

Tornado Kills One, Hurts 50 In Kentucky

RAVENNA, Ky. (AP)—Thirty or more families looked today for temporary housing after a tornado injured more than 50 and caused heavy property damage in this railroad town at the southeastern edge of Kentucky's Blue Grass region.

The hit-skip storm Friday also struck in adjoining Lee County, killing a 9-year-old girl. Heavy timber from a partially constructed church fell on her.

A score of Ravenna children were hurt when the storm collapsed a church where 23 children were studying the Bible.

Castro Waits U.S. Team In Tractor-Prisoner Deal

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said early today he will receive a four-man bargaining team from the United States to work out details of swapping 1,200 captive Cuban rebels for 500 tractors.

But the bearded prime minister raised anew his alternate proposal to trade the rebels captured in the abortive April invasion for "political prisoners" held by the United States, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Castro notified the U. S. Tractors-for-Freedom Committee that he would receive its technicians, provided they have full power to negotiate the tractor-prisoner deal as "spelled out" by the Cuban prisoners mission sent to the United States to broach his offer.

The freedom committee announced in Detroit its bargaining team will fly to Havana Monday.

In his note to the freedom group Castro said he would have preferred leading members of the committee itself, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Milton Eisenhower, come to Havana, "but that is not indispensable."

He insisted, however, that the bargaining mission "must have powers to discuss the quality and amount of indemnification Cuba is asking. Your committee cannot decide by itself what kind of equipment Cuba is going to accept as compensation for all the material damage done by the aggressive actions launched from the United States against our country." Castro declared.

"Your committee ought to know that we are the ones to decide over our own business and that we only accept technical advice when we ask for it beforehand."

The note, signed by Castro, also called for an answer to his proposal for exchanging the invasion captives for Cubans held in the United States and elsewhere.

"In this case," he said, "Cuba would be willing to surrender all her claims for material indemnification."

Castro has insisted repeatedly during his overtures that the exchange should be on a "freedom for freedom" basis.

Castro insisted he had no ulterior motive in suggesting that Mrs. Roosevelt and Dr. Eisenhower come to Cuba to take a personal hand in the negotiations.

The freedom committee said its bargaining team will fly from Miami, Fla., Monday at 2:30 p.m. EST on a regularly scheduled flight and indicated newsmen could go along. The plane ordinarily flies empty to Havana to pick up passengers for Miami.

Sentencing's Due Monday For Campbell

No New Trial Plea Likely For Man In Wife's Murder

Raymond Campbell of the River Rd. is expected to be in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon early next week, possibly Monday, for sentencing on conviction of first degree manslaughter in the slaying of his wife at their Beechwood home the night of Nov. 28.

He faces a prison term of 1-20 years. Campbell, 26, was convicted Thursday by a jury in the trial which began Monday.

Campbell is free under $10,000 bond. He has three days in which to file a motion for a new trial. The time will be up at 4:40 p. m. Monday, just 72 hours from the time the jury returned the verdict.

Sunday does not count because court is not open. The jury deliberated over two hours before returning the verdict. Prosecutor G. William Brokaw had sought a conviction of second degree murder, which carries a life penalty.

Court observers said it is unlikely that he will file for a new trial in view of the fact he was convicted on the lesser charge rather than for second degree murder.

Campbell shot his wife, Mrs. Doris Mae Campbell, after she told him she was leaving him.

Testimony during the trial showed various men had visited her in the past two years after her husband would leave for work at a pottery in the mornings.

The exact date and time of the sentencing will depend on the court calendar.

Kennedy Note Delivered

'Break' Looms In Laos Deadlock

GENEVA (AP) — A possible break in the deadlocked international conference on Laos appeared in the making today—at least in the talking stage.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman Friday delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a note President Kennedy personally approved. Then Harriman spent an hour backing it up.

American sources said Gromyko responded to the extent of expressing eagerness for going on with the 14-nation talks but he offered nothing specific in the way of compromise. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home planned to fly here from London Sunday to see Gromyko.

Violations of the cease-fire in Laos by the pro-Communist rebels caused the Western powers to call an indefinite postponement of the conference last Thursday.

The decision followed the rebels' capture of Padong, a mountain village 20 miles south of rebel headquarters at Xieng Khouang.

American sources understood that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev instructed Gromyko to indicate a desire for resumption of the Geneva conference as a result of his talks with President Kennedy.

Khrushchev and Kennedy were agreed on the importance of a cease-fire when they met last weekend in Vienna, though some observers doubted that the words in their joint communique held the same meaning for each.

Gromyko told Harriman Friday that U. S. parachute supply drops to Padong's defenders had provoked the attack by the rebels.

Boy On Cycle Only Bruised In Collision

Chester Man's Car Hits Cyclist While On Hill Rd. Here

A 16-year-old Friendly (W. Va.) youth escaped with only bruises Friday night when he cut his bicycle into the front of a Chester man's westbound auto on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," police reported.

Ralph Richard Cowles, 26, of 174 Penn Ave., Chester, took Gail Clyne to the Osteopathic Hospital for treatment of an abrasion of the left elbow and then reported the mishap to police headquarters. Police said the youth is visiting Percy Cook, 1714 Pennsylvania Ave.

Cowles told police he was headed west shortly after 10 p. m. when he saw the youth on the bicycle in the same lane.

The motorist said he waited until eastbound traffic passed and

Man Gets Long Term In Trooper Shooting

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — Thomas Ferriman, 23, of Chippewa Lake, Ohio, accused of shooting a state trooper five times, Friday drew a 16½ to 33 year jail term.

His companion, Max Parsons, 20, of Tampa, Fla., charged with illegal possession of firearms, was sentenced to 1½ to 3 years in prison.

Both pleaded guilty. Ferriman will undergo psychiatric examination before confinement.

Trooper Leonard P. Straple, 31, was shot five times and pistol-whipped by Ferriman after he had stopped him for speeding last Feb. 13.

Straple suffered near fatal wounds on Route 422 east of New Castle. Despite bullet wounds of the chest, arms and face, Straple was able to radio his station and relay information which resulted in the arrest of his assailant within an hour.

U.S. Plane With 8 Missing In Pacific

TOKYO (AP)—Search for the missing U. S. Air Force cargo plane today failed to find any trace of the transport with eight men which disappeared on a flight to Midway Island.

The Air Force declared the plane missing at 7:45 a.m. (local time) following radio silence after takeoff. Its 10 hour fuel supply would have been exhausted at 10:08 a.m.

The search is centered about 250 miles east of Tokyo.

Don't Wait Too Long

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "The poorest risk for college," says George Hedden, director of admissions at Rochester Institute of Technology, "is the student who is capable of excellent work but has never done it. If he thinks he can wait until college to start working, he is highly mistaken."

Role In Clerk Test Clarified By Dawson

City Treasurer Bert A. Dawson said today that it was at the behest of the Civil Service Commission that Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson was asked to draft material as a guide to the commission in preparing a test for a clerk - stenographer's post in the income tax department.

When it was decided the commission would conduct an exam to fill the job, P. K. Calhoon, clerk of the commission, called Dawson and asked him to supply the information on the duties of the job as a guide to the commission in drawing up the test, related.

Dawson said he relayed the request to Wilkinson, who is the office supervisor, asking him to "write out some suggestions on the duties" of the post. Dawson said he did not request Wilkinson to draft questions for the exam.

Dawson issued the explanation after a member of the commission alleged that the treasurer "was out of line" in asking Wilkinson to draft questions for the

President's Back Better, Doctor Says

But Dr. Janet Travell kept a sharp vigil over her famous patient to see that he obeyed orders.

She again directed that he get a lot of rest, swim in a heated pool and use crutches while walking about the seaside villa where he is staying.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said it still is too early to say whether Kennedy will be on crutches when he leaves late Sunday for Washington.

Texas Encounters First Racial Trouble In Sports

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Texas had its first segregation trouble in sports Friday night and it virtually wrecked what was supposed to be the finest track and field meet in the state's history.

Twenty Negro stars, including world record holders Ralph Boston of Tennessee State and John Thomas of Boston University and four Olympians, refused to cross picket lines at the city-owned Jeppesen Stadium.

The trouble was triggered by the withdrawal of Texas Southern, a Negro university in Houston, because it charged there was segregation in the seating.

That came Thursday night and it was late Friday before the other Negroes in the meet followed suit when 30 segregation demonstrators picketed the meet.

Eldrewey J. Stearnes, director of the Progressive Youth Association, a group working for desegregation, goaded Boston and Thomas into withdrawing when he said they were insults to the Negro race for refusing to walk out.

Stearnes said heatedly that the two were "wined and dined and brainwashed into staying in the meet." Boston and Thomas both turned away from the stadium when they reached the picket line after giving no indication at a pre-meet dinner that they would not compete.

"I'm not going to go in there as long as these people are out here picketing," Thomas said.

The meet went on without the Negro athletes but there were no world's or national records as had

The question of the roles of Dawson and Wilkinson was raised Thursday when the commission investigated an anonymous note charging that a copy of the questions Wilkinson prepared found its way into the hands of a woman employe of the office who is one of the 12 applicants for the exam.

However, the members of the commission said they already had drafted their own exam and did not intend using any of the questions proposed by Wilkinson. The tax commissioner said no one saw the questions except himself before he turned them over to Calhoon.

Viennese Swirl Cake Is Delightful Dessert

Starting with a new light, high and lovely fudge swirl angel food cake mix, you can rapidly create a dessert worthy of an international chef.

Swirls of chocolate cut through the white angel food batter, and more swirls of unsweetened chocolate garnish a sour cream frosting spiced with cinnamon and sugar.

The chocolate drizzle sets as it reaches the cold sour cream topping, and forms an extremely attractive pattern.

Bake Fudge Swirl Angel Food Cake Mix as directed on package. Combine 12 oz. sour cream, 1-3 cup sugar and 1 tsp. cinnamon. Chill. Spread over cooled cake. Melt ½ sq. unsweetened chocolate (½ oz.) and ½ tsp. shortening over hot water; cool slightly. Just before serving, drizzle chocolate over top of cake. Cold cream will "set" melted chocolate just enough to make cutting easy.

Adlai Faces Abuse Threat In Rio Today

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) —Adlai stevenson faced the threat of more demonstrations today in Brazil, major trouble spot in his Latin American tour, after catching a blast here from supporters of Fidel Castro.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations came under the first attack of his tour Friday night when speakers at a university rally denounced him as an "envoy of Wall Street" and demanded that he leave Uruguay.

The Uruguayan government also made clear to Stevenson—on a special mission for President Kennedy—that it opposed any action against the Castro regime in Cuba. It was especially firm against armed intervention.

Stevenson was due in Rio de Janiero in midafternoon to seek understanding with Brazil's new president, Janio Quadros, on Cuba and other issues.

U.S. officials, who have been worried by some policies of the Quadros government, are anxious to line up his support for a program to improve working conditions in Latin America.

Stevenson planned to see the Brazilian foreign minister and other officials, then fly to Sao Paulo Sunday for private discussions with Quadros.

Stevenson's associates played down the importance of Friday night's demonstrations, but it was further proof that South American sentiment, both official and private, is pretty solid against anti-Castro action.

Stevenson found this feeling both in the Venezuelan and Argentine governments and again in Uruguay.

Trial Ordered For Colonel In Tower Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a colonel to face a court martial in the collapse of a radar "Texas Tower" that dragged 28 men to their death in the Atlantic Ocean.

The officer, Col. William M. Banks, has been charged with being derelict in duty by failing to keep himself informed.

Banks was in command of the Boston air defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The court martial was ordered Friday by the air defense commander, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee. The Air Force indicated the military trial may convene within a week.

Charges against two other officers—Majs. William R. Sheppard and Reginald L. Stark—were dismissed. Both had been serving under Banks. Lee also dismissed a charge against Banks of culpable negligence resulting in death. Banks is from Raleigh, W.Va.

The tower, officially known as No. 4 but unaffectionately known by its crew as "old shaky," buckled and sank in an Atlantic gale Jan. 15.

Standing on three stilt-like legs in open sea, No. 4 had been battered and weakened by hurricanes Daisy and Donna, and it was inclined to sway and vibrate like a tuning fork.

Acting on a tip from the Weirton Hospital that Young had been treated for a cut arm, police arrested him at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

Police found blood at the scene where the robber apparently suffered a cut on the broken window. The theft was reported to police by a passerby at 5:50 a. m. Friday.

Viennese Swirl Cake Is Delightful Dessert

The Viennese coffee houses are rightfully proud of their luscious and artistic world-famous confections, and they wouldn't hesitate claiming a Viennese Fudge Swirl Cake.

Starting with a new light, high and lovely fudge swirl angel food cake mix, you can rapidly create a dessert worthy of an international chef.

Swirls of chocolate cut through the white angel food batter, and more swirls of unsweetened chocolate garnish a sour cream frosting spiced with cinnamon and sugar.

The chocolate drizzle sets as it reaches the cold sour cream topping, and forms an extremely attractive pattern.

Bake Fudge Swirl Angel Food Cake Mix as directed on package. Combine 12 oz. sour cream, 1-3 cup sugar and 1 tsp. cinnamon. Chill. Spread over cooled cake. Melt ½ sq. unsweetened chocolate (½ oz.) and ½ tsp. shortening over hot water; cool slightly. Just before serving, drizzle chocolate over top of cake. Cold cream will "set" melted chocolate just enough to make cutting easy.

Adlai Faces Abuse Threat In Rio Today

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) —Adlai stevenson faced the threat of more demonstrations today in Brazil, major trouble spot in his Latin American tour, after catching a blast here from supporters of Fidel Castro.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations came under the first attack of his tour Friday night when speakers at a university rally denounced him as an "envoy of Wall Street" and demanded that he leave Uruguay.

The Uruguayan government also made clear to Stevenson—on a special mission for President Kennedy—that it opposed any action against the Castro regime in Cuba. It was especially firm against armed intervention.

Stevenson was due in Rio de Janiero in midafternoon to seek understanding with Brazil's new president, Janio Quadros, on Cuba and other issues.

U.S. officials, who have been worried by some policies of the Quadros government, are anxious to line up his support for a program to improve working conditions in Latin America.

Stevenson planned to see the Brazilian foreign minister and other officials, then fly to Sao Paulo Sunday for private discussions with Quadros.

Stevenson's associates played down the importance of Friday night's demonstrations, but it was further proof that South American sentiment, both official and private, is pretty solid against anti-Castro action.

Stevenson found this feeling both in the Venezuelan and Argentine governments and again in Uruguay.

Trial Ordered For Colonel In Tower Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a colonel to face a court martial in the collapse of a radar "Texas Tower" that dragged 28 men to their death in the Atlantic Ocean.

The officer, Col. William M. Banks, has been charged with being derelict in duty by failing to keep himself informed.

Banks was in command of the Boston air defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The court martial was ordered Friday by the air defense commander, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee. The Air Force indicated the military trial may convene within a week.

Charges against two other officers—Majs. William R. Sheppard and Reginald L. Stark—were dismissed. Both had been serving under Banks. Lee also dismissed a charge against Banks of culpable negligence resulting in death. Banks is from Raleigh, W.Va.

The tower, officially known as No. 4 but unaffectionately known by its crew as "old shaky," buckled and sank in an Atlantic gale Jan. 15.

Standing on three stilt-like legs in open sea, No. 4 had been battered and weakened by hurricanes Daisy and Donna, and it was inclined to sway and vibrate like a tuning fork.

Suspect Held In Burglary

WEIRTON — Police arrested a 25-year-old city man Friday at 5:50 p. m., 12 hours after the Granada Jewelry Store on Main St. was burglarized of $815 in wrist watches and an electric shaver.

Edward L. Yount, 211 Sharp St., was charged with breaking and entering and theft of about two dozen wrist watches worth $800, and the shaver worth $15.

Police said the store was entered early Friday morning. The thief hurled a large piece of concrete through the showroom window and then scooped up the watches and razor.

Acting on a tip from the Weirton Hospital that Young had been treated for a cut arm, police arrested him at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

Police found blood at the scene where the robber apparently suffered a cut on the broken window. The theft was reported to police by a passerby at 5:50 a. m. Friday.

Young is being held today in Hancock County Jail at New Cumberland in lieu of $1,500 bond. Mike Granada is the owner of the jewelry store.

U.S. Reds Will Force The Issue

If Communists in the United States carry out their general secretary's promise to show contempt for the U.S. Supreme Court rulings against them, they will force the issue of their right to exist in this country.

The Supreme Court, Congress and the executive department then would have to do what has been difficult to do before—determine whether Communists have a legal right to operate in the United States, or whether they are outlaws.

To date, this right has not been directly challenged, except where it could be proved that Communists were actively seeking overthrow of the government by violence. The only effect of laws such as those upheld by the Supreme Court has been to cramp their style. The two laws upheld by the court require Communists to register and reveal their finances and make it a crime to belong to a subversive organization, even without proof of personal participation in efforts to overthrow the government.

COMMUNISTS ARE NOT members of a political party in the United States. That fiction folded up many years ago.

They are members of a secret organization with direct connections with an international organization dominated by a hard core of Russian Communists. In recent years, moreover, their secret organization has been influenced by another hard core of Chinese Communists. And now it will be susceptible to still another hard core—Cuban Communists.

This is not a political party.

There is no comparison between the Communist organization and a political party.

It is understandable why Communists like to pretend there is a comparison, but no judge, no legislator and no law enforcement agency in the United States has any reason to accept such a ridiculous claim.

It would be a favor to the United States if its Communists would force the issue by defying the judicial ruling that they can be required legally to register, to reveal their finances and to bear the consequences of belonging to an organization whose purpose is to overthrow the government.

As the Communists' general secretary sees it, his organization has no choice but to show contempt and open new litigation. Perhaps he hopes this might drag on so long the Communist conquest of the Free World that Chairman Khrushchev of the Soviet Union talks about would be over and done with before the ponderous machinery of U.S. justice could grind out a decision.

THAT IS the chance we take in America. Government by deliberation is exasperatingly slow when it needs to be fast.

But if Communists speed up the process confronting the United States with a showdown, the outcome is a certainty.

Communism in the United States will be ruled by law to be what it always has been here in fact—a foreign-financed plot against the government of the United States and its sovereign citizens. It will be treason.

Its agents then will have a choice. They can take up a new line of work or they can become traitors.

Death Traps

The Associated Press news wire Friday carried a tragic story from Concord, N.H. It told of the death of three small boys who climbed into a freezer chest while at play and suffocated when the lid closed.

This should serve as another warning to East Liverpool and district residents to guard against such accidents.

First, check your own property. If an old refrigerator, chest, trunk or anything of a similar nature that would serve as a hideout for a small child at play is on hand, make certain that the lid or door can't slam shut.

Next, don't stop at the boundaries of your own property. Should you spot receptacles in vacant lots that might turn into death traps, call them to the attention of the police or firemen if you don't have time to correct the situation yourself.

Preventive steps can keep a tragic story with an East Liverpool dateline from making the AP wire.

Young Man On A Burial Detail

He would have been discouraged if he could have looked into the places where his report was being received on television. His countrymen were giving him half an ear and half an eye. They knew the report deserved their full attention, but they could focus their interest on it only with conscious effort.

The text shows why.

Every word of the report was incontestably true; there was no controversy in it.

Neither was there a surprise in it. It was a politically sterile document. When headline writers dealt with it, they could find no single idea that was novel or noteworthy.

Mr. Kennedy is dealing so obviously in truisms when he tells what he did and what he thought about what he did that the net effect is a report of a trip to a national park, or perhaps to a famous cathedral. The peroration said everything there is to say:

"We must accept both risks and burdens, but with the will and the work, freedom will prevail."

WHAT AMERICANS need to know more than what is in their President's mind at this time is what is in the minds of the older men who met him and consulted with him for the first time while he was in Europe.

Did President De Gaulle of France, Chairman Khrushchev of the Soviet Union and Premier Macmillan of Great Britain find in the words and thoughts of the young political leader from the United States the assurance that he would negotiate on an even footing with his much older contemporaries in international affairs?

Could they accept with good grace when he returned to the United States what must have been much on their minds since his election last fall—that in all probability he — will send condolences when they come to the end of their days long before he has begun to show the ravages of encroaching years?

Chairman Khrushchev, speaking of the ideological issue between the Communist Conspiracy and its intended victims, has boasted that the Communists will bury the United States. This has become the watchword for those who rightly believe that the first necessity is to be aware of the Communists' intentions, because vigilance is the only thing that can thwart them.

BUT IN FACT, the "burying" is destined to be the other way around.

Khrushchev is one of the last of the old revolutionists in Russia. Most of his companions already have been buried by the savagery of the struggle for power inside the party and by the erosion of time.

The Communists who will come after Khrushchev are far distant from the early days in both time and thought. What Marxists call "revisionism" will be their political preoccupation.

But John F. Kennedy, president of the United States, is as close to the origins of American strength and the continuous doctrine of freedom as it is possible to be.

It is the reason his speeches seem to be recitations of truisms. They are.

'Clay All The Way'

The role of clay products in the national economy and in the tri-state industrial picture is a vital one and deserves the full recognition that goes with "National Clay Week", which will begin tomorrow.

Although the center of attraction will be Tuscarawas County, with a pageant and the selection of a "Miss Clayland", the significance of the brick and tile industry in the East Liverpool area should not be ignored.

The jobs provided by the clay industries and the part their products play in helping to build and improve the American way of life are of importance to all of us.

We join in this special tribute to the clay industries and urge support of the 1961 slogan, "Make It Clay All The Way".

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Hamilton Fish says perhaps men with domineering mothers-in-law will offer to swap them for tractors or lawn-mowers. Mortimer Topblower has grabbed at the idea and made the following proposition:

"I hereby offer my mother-in-law in exchange for what have you, and hope a committee will take it up fast, as I cannot stand her much longer. A few tractors would do me no good, as they would make almost as much noise as the old gal does. The same goes for steam shovels which she could make sound like minor disturbances.

"At first I thought of swapping her for a power lawnmower but my mother-in-law is less bother on account of she needs less sharpening to cut close.

"Just what I could get in exchange is a puzzler, but I would let her go cheap, maybe for something like a book on the Battle of Gettysburg, Shiloh and the Wilderness. This would in a way be an even swap. A whole load of my wife's other relatives are heading for my home this summer and I intend to capture them and exchange the bunch for a free balloon, a skin diving costume and material for a fallout shelter."

Topblower says the idea is spreading and he knows a man who has captured six landlords and will try to get a committee to give him 50 do-it-yourself plumbing and general household repair kits and six army tanks. He says it takes at least six tanks to win an argument with a landlord.

"I know a man who says he wishes he could capture some of the U.S. officials who approved the Cuban landings so he could form a committee to trade them for a couple of good astrologers, gypsy fortune tellers and an oil painting of Napoleon," declares Mr. Topblower.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

"Psychiatry and faith are teammates," says Chaplain Joseph H. Lief of the Veterans Hospital at Northport, N. Y. There for 15 years this rabbi has offered patients the strength and inspiration of faith, while psychiatrists have offered them mental health.

He has devoted his life to serving the personal and spiritual needs of thousands of patients, says the National Jewish Welfare Board, with "the warmth of a human and with brotherly feeling," becoming "famous in the field of pastoral counseling."

Kennedy Seeks Inflation Curb

By Victor Riesel

President Kennedy returned from the Vienna waltz worried that the U. S. dollar may go soft here and thus prevent a hard line on foreign fronts facing the Soviets. He told his brain trust he wants no cheapening of the dollar—and this means no new rounds of more than token wage and price increases.

Victor Riesel

He has no formula for keeping wages and prices almost level. He wants no official controls. He wants government decree freezing the vast bread and butter front. He wants advice. He wants this from the 21-man President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy.

And he wants this advice by July 10, when they meet again for two days. This national pocketbook peril will be the sole topic because the President has told them he wants no further inflation. But this will be tough advice for the committee to conjure up.

THEY'VE A PROBLEM: There is an automatic steel workers' wage increase of almost 8 cents an hour due hundreds of thousands of men on Oct. 1. This resulted from the agreement signed by the union and the steel industry in January 1960. This in turn could bring a hike in steel prices.

Furthermore, the auto workers may well be right in the midst of tough bargaining with the Big Three car makers. Walter Reuther and his colleagues are not exactly accustomed to foregoing pay hikes —especially at the moment steel pay goes up more than three dollars a week.

If some 2 million auto and steel workers' pay goes up and there are some price hikes, no matter how small both are, a new pay-price pattern will be set. As steel and auto go, so go the other mass industries.

Furthermore, as a veteran of the coverage of the 116-day steel strike, I now know why the gray steals so quickly alongside my temples. Tempus fugits more swiftly than should be expected. The new steel contract negotiations are not far off—though it seems as if the 116-day national stoppage was just settled. The contracts which wound that one up expire on June 30 next year.

THIS MEANS the United Steelworkers and the steel industry committee of 12 producing corporations are preparing for new bargaining sessions. These can begin next March or April. It takes no crystal ball to expect the union, led by David McDonald, to ask for new wage increases.

With Dave McDonald and Walter Reuther as well as Henry Ford II and Joseph Block, head of Inland Steel, on the 21-man board, it is difficult to see any unanimous advice on a wage and price holiday.

But the President wants one. And the 21-man committee may come up with something like a wage-price review board. However, it must be remembered that the advisory committee members speak only for themselves. Neither Reuther nor George Meany, while on the committee, speak for other labor leaders. Nor do Ford, Block or Thomas Watson of International Business Machines speak for the other industrialists or the Chamber of Commerce of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Without the commitment of all labor and industry, it is difficult to see how President Kennedy can get what he wants—an effective moratorium on pay and prices.

So he may attempt to set up a peacetime cold-war labor-management board.

JOHN KENNEDY might do just this on the theory that many a cold war battle will be lost if the prestige of the U.S. dollar suffers abroad.

"He is concerned," a White House economist said privately the other day, "with the cheapening of the dollar. If the world loses faith in the American dollar, if the respect for the hardness of the American dollar goes, so go we, the President believes.

"His Council of Economic Advisers has told him we're running into big inflation. Now, he doesn't want even mild inflation to soften the dollar. What is almost obsessing him is the balance of international payments, more gold going out than coming in. If wages and prices go up, our stuff will be even more expensive abroad and less gold will be coming in because there will be fewer buyers abroad. So he wants a tough policy at home."

If he gets it, there will be the greatest exhibition of self-control this nation has yet seen.

Letter To Editor

It is not generally known that physicians in the private practice of medicine are the only large group in the U.S. not now covered by social security.

Polls taken in 21 states reveal that, in 17 of these, most doctors assuredly want to be covered. Among the latter are such states as New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio and West Virginia.

Yet, when a bill was introduced in Congress and passed by the House in 1960, it was killed by the Senate Finance Committee on the belief that the AMA House of Delegates did not want coverage for doctors.

As an independent practitioner, I do not believe that the Senate committee had a correct view of the situation. In fact, there has been formed, now, a "Committee for Social Security for Physicians" at 510 Madison Ave., New York City. This group is endeavoring to get the delegates to the 1961 AMA convention to pledge themselves to vote for social security for physicians.

I regard it as unjust that doctors in private practice are denied the same coverage and protection as other self - employed individuals in the U.S.

'Calm' Land?

Some 3,000 years ago a Chinese sage and 5,000 followers settled peaceably among the tribesmen of northwest Korea. They named their new home Chosen, "Land of the Morning Calm."

Since then the big Korean peninsula that juts out from Asia between the Yellow Sea and Sea of Japan intermittently has borne that name. But for much of the time it actually has been anything but calm.

Traditionally a land bridge between the greater Asian powers—China, Japan and Russia — Chosen has been the battleground for many of their wars. Since the turn of the century it has been occupied in turn by troops from Japan, Russia, the United States and the United Nations.

The last upheaval left the peninsula divided, at the 38th parallel, into North and South Korea. The Republic of Korea (south) remained free. The People's Democratic Republic of Korea (north) was drawn into the Communist orbit.

Iran's Problems

By H.A.R. Philby

Foreign Relations Provide Puzzle

TEHERAN — Behind the immediate internal problems that beset the new Iranian government of Premier Ali Amini, there looms the shadow of foreign relations.

Iran's international position is not a happy one, and, provided that the Amini government survives the present crisis, it is certain to take a new look at the issues involved.

There is a strong tendency among Iranian intellectuals to toy with the idea of neutralism, and to speculate on the possibility of adopting some form of "middle position" in the cold war. This tendency is represented in Dr. Amini's cabinet.

The main bases of Iran's foreign policy at present are the Central Treaty Organization (originally the Baghdad Pact) and the bilateral treaty with the United States. In CENTO, Britain, Rukey and Iran and Pakistan are full members, while the United States is closely associated with the alliance.

IT WOULD BE IDLE to pretend that Iranian opinion is satisfied with the achievements of CENTO.

The military provisions of the alliance arouse no enthusiasm, since it is clear that, even in a limited war, Iran would be ravaged, CENTO or no CENTO. But even the results of economic cooperation between the treaty powers and the United States are becoming the targets for increasingly severe criticism.

A former Iranian foreign minister went so far as to declare that Iran had obtained no economic benefits from the pact. This was certainly a deliberate over-statement, but it reflected widespread disillusionment in Iran.

Dr. Amini, however, has said publicly and privately that his government has no intention of taking unilateral action in the matter. Any change in CENTO arrangements must be negotiated with Iran's partners, and Iran will meanwhile stand by her obligations to the alliance.

For the time being, it seems certain that Iran will remain in CENTO, if only because the Shah favors the alliance. The Shah tends to pay particularly close attention to foreign affairs, together with the related question of defense.

MEANWHILE, the government is determined to make an attempt to repair its fences with the Soviet Union.

Several times since the Amini government was formed, the Soviet ambassador, Nikolai Pegov, has emerged from the huge compound that encloses the Soviet mission for consultations with members of the government. In these talks, which are exploratory, the Iranian government's chief aim is to discover the Russian terms for an improvement in relations.

Such improvement would imply in the first place a cessation of Soviet propaganda attacks, both from Radio Moscow and from the National Voice of Iran, a broadcasting system which purports to be a clandestine one operating inside Iran, but which is in fact located on Soviet soil.

Soviet propaganda is a serious nuisance in Iran. It does not create unrest: There is ample reason for that to be found inside the country itself. But it makes a powerful contribution toward keeping it alive and in full ferment.

A NATURAL consequence of improved relations in the shape of purification of the ether would be increased trade between Iran and the Soviet Union. Such trade already exists; Soviet-built taxis are a notable feature of the broad boulevards of Teheran. But there is ample scope for fuller and more diversified exchanges.

Whether a temporary improvement in Iranian-Soviet relations can be effected, a lasting settlement is out of the question. Dr Amini has said that past differences have been due to "misunderstandings," a remark that should rank high on the list of understatements of the year.

In fact, Soviet policy toward Iran is to use all means of pressure available to have a pro-Soviet government installed in Iran. The first step would be Iranian withdrawal from CENTO, accompanied by a declaration of neutrality. The next steps would entail gradual leaning toward the Soviet Union, ending with Iran's absorption into the Eastern bloc.

As long as this situation exists, Iran is likely to think many times before leaving CENTO. The alliance may not be an effective military shield or a cornucopia. But at least it does something to keep the Russians guessing, and thus gives Iran a bargaining position which she can ill afford to throw away.

Dear Nephew: If you're asking this old party for an opinion about the almost total lack of commemoration of D-day, I think it's because most of us realize that nothing gets settled.

I don't know how older and wiser civilizations felt about this, though I have been told the Chinese never feel that anything is going to be settled and that this makes them impossible to conquer in the long run.

But I do know from personal experience that anyone who refused to break and run every time there's a loud noise is mighty hard to take advantage of. Have you thought about the way the Jews who were going to be killed by the millions to "settle" the Jewish question once and for all for the Nordic master race now are haunting Germany as represented by that rat-faced Eichman sitting in a glass cage in Israel? Nothing was settled.

I've thought a hundred times about the men who died and suffered in the Civil War to settle the issue of state sovereignty, which the members of the Constitutional Convention thought they had settled with words.

I've thought about the way Teddy Roosevelt and the eager beavers who strung along with him settled things in Cuba and about the way we were going to keep the Old World from messing in the New World by writing the Monroe Doctrine on a piece of paper and backing it up with the U.S. Marines.

We settled things in World War I. We settled things in the Korean War. But nothing gets settled. Nothing got settled when all those hundreds of thousands of men mucked ashore on June 6, 1944. But we still believed in settlements then, and they believed or they wouldn't have been so valiant.

It's what has happened since then that has wrecked our faith. We never know any more what has been proved by what we do. We continually ask, "What does that prove?" — and it's a good question.

I do not mean we didn't prove anything on June 6, 1944. We proved that its enemies had Germany on its last legs and that destroying the military machine built by Hitler was only a matter of keeping on the pressure until it destroyed itself. We then proved the same thing against Japan.

But nothing was settled. We bought a little time to prove to ourselves that the thing the Axis powers represented wasn't strong enough yet to bowl us over. And now we are having to prove it again. Sell the family jewels and make a long-range bet that if we buy more time it will have to be proved again, too.

Don't ask me who will try to give us the business the next time. I think it might be the Chinese, except that I can't see how the Chinese ever will be persuaded to pull together long enough. But I would be inclined to put my money on them, because they have the numbers, vitality and the intelligence.

It's getting to be hard for some of us to remember the special events that settled things. I can remember when the United States made the world safe for democracy and finally got the job done on Nov. 11, 1918. Democracy hasn't had a safe moment since.

Your aunt sends her love and wants to know if you remember where you put your diploma when you put it away for safe keeping. She says she wants to look at it sometime to make sure it's genuine; that she is having doubts the last few years.

U.S. Reds Will Force The Issue

If Communists in the United States carry out their general secretary's promise to show contempt for the U.S. Supreme Court rulings against them, they will force the issue of their right to exist in this country.

The Supreme Court, Congress and the executive department then would have to do what has been difficult to do before—determine whether Communists have a legal right to operate in the United States, or whether they are outlaws.

To date, this right has not been directly challenged, except where it could be proved that Communists were actively seeking overthrow of the government by violence. The only effect of laws such as those upheld by the Supreme Court has been to cramp their style. The two laws upheld by the court require Communists to register and reveal their finances and make it a crime to belong to a subversive organization, even without proof of personal participation in efforts to overthrow the government.

COMMUNISTS ARE NOT members of a political party in the United States. That fiction folded up many years ago.

They are members of a secret organization with direct connections with an international organization dominated by a hard core of Russian Communists. In recent years, moreover, their secret organization has been influenced by another hard core of Chinese Communists. And now it will be susceptible to still another hard core—Cuban Communists.

This is not a political party.

There is no comparison between the Communist organization and a political party.

It is understandable why Communists like to pretend there is a comparison, but no judge, no legislator and no law enforcement agency in the United States has any reason to accept such a ridiculous claim.

It would be a favor to the United States if its Communists would force the issue by defying the judicial ruling that they can be required legally to register, to reveal their finances and to bear the consequences of belonging to an organization whose purpose is to overthrow the government.

As the Communists' general secretary sees it, his organization has no choice but to show contempt and open new litigation. Perhaps he hopes this might drag on so long the Communist conquest of the Free World that Chairman Khrushchev of the Soviet Union talks about would be over and done with before the ponderous machinery of U.S. justice could grind out a decision.

THAT IS the chance we take in America. Government by deliberation is exasperatingly slow when it needs to be fast.

But if Communists speed up the process confronting the United States with a showdown, the outcome is a certainty.

Communism in the United States will be ruled by law to be what it always has been here in fact—a foreign-financed plot against the government of the United States and its sovereign citizens. It will be treason.

Its agents then will have a choice. They can take up a new line of work or they can become traitors.

Death Traps

The Associated Press news wire Friday carried a tragic story from Concord, N.H. It told of the death of three small boys who climbed into a freezer chest while at play and suffocated when the lid closed.

This should serve as another warning to East Liverpool and district residents to guard against such accidents.

First, check your own property. If an old refrigerator, chest, trunk or anything of a similar nature that would serve as a hideout for a small child at play is on hand, make certain that the lid or door can't slam shut.

Next, don't stop at the boundaries of your own property. Should you spot receptacles in vacant lots that might turn into death traps, call them to the attention of the police or firemen if you don't have time to correct the situation yourself.

Preventive steps can keep a tragic story with an East Liverpool dateline from making the AP wire.

Young Man On A Burial Detail

He would have been discouraged if he could have looked into the places where his report was being received on television. His countrymen were giving him half an ear and half an eye. They knew the report deserved their full attention, but they could focus their interest on it only with conscious effort.

The text shows why.

Every word of the report was incontestably true; there was no controversy in it.

Neither was there a surprise in it. It was a politically sterile document. When headline writers dealt with it, they could find no single idea that was novel or noteworthy.

Mr. Kennedy is dealing so obviously in truisms when he tells what he did and what he thought about what he did that the net effect is a report of a trip to a national park, or perhaps to a famous cathedral. The peroration said everything there is to say:

"We must accept both risks and burdens, but with the will and the work, freedom will prevail."

WHAT AMERICANS need to know more than what is in their President's mind at this time is what is in the minds of the older men who met him and consulted with him for the first time while he was in Europe.

Did President De Gaulle of France, Chairman Khrushchev of the Soviet Union and Premier Macmillan of Great Britain find in the words and thoughts of the young political leader from the United States the assurance that he would negotiate on an even footing with his much older contemporaries in international affairs?

Could they accept with good grace when he returned to the United States what must have been much on their minds since his election last fall—that in all probability he — will send condolences when they come to the end of their days long before he has begun to show the ravages of encroaching years?

Chairman Khrushchev, speaking of the ideological issue between the Communist Conspiracy and its intended victims, has boasted that the Communists will bury the United States. This has become the watchword for those who rightly believe that the first necessity is to be aware of the Communists' intentions, because vigilance is the only thing that can thwart them.

BUT IN FACT, the "burying" is destined to be the other way around.

Khrushchev is one of the last of the old revolutionists in Russia. Most of his companions already have been buried by the savagery of the struggle for power inside the party and by the erosion of time.

The Communists who will come after Khrushchev are far distant from the early days in both time and thought. What Marxists call "revisionism" will be their political preoccupation.

But John F. Kennedy, president of the United States, is as close to the origins of American strength and the continuous doctrine of freedom as it is possible to be.

It is the reason his speeches seem to be recitations of truisms. They are.

'Clay All The Way'

The role of clay products in the national economy and in the tri-state industrial picture is a vital one and deserves the full recognition that goes with "National Clay Week", which will begin tomorrow.

Although the center of attraction will be Tuscarawas County, with a pageant and the selection of a "Miss Clayland", the significance of the brick and tile industry in the East Liverpool area should not be ignored.

The jobs provided by the clay industries and the part their products play in helping to build and improve the American way of life are of importance to all of us.

We join in this special tribute to the clay industries and urge support of the 1961 slogan, "Make It Clay All The Way".

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Hamilton Fish says perhaps men with domineering mothers-in-law will offer to swap them for tractors or lawn-mowers. Mortimer Topblower has grabbed at the idea and made the following proposition:

"I hereby offer my mother-in-law in exchange for what have you, and hope a committee will take it up fast, as I cannot stand her much longer. A few tractors would do me no good, as they would make almost as much noise as the old gal does. The same goes for steam shovels which she could make sound like minor disturbances.

"At first I thought of swapping her for a power lawnmower but my mother-in-law is less bother on account of she needs less sharpening to cut close.

"Just what I could get in exchange is a puzzler, but I would let her go cheap, maybe for something like a book on the Battle of Gettysburg, Shiloh and the Wilderness. This would in a way be an even swap. A whole load of my wife's other relatives are heading for my home this summer and I intend to capture them and exchange the bunch for a free balloon, a skin diving costume and material for a fallout shelter."

Topblower says the idea is spreading and he knows a man who has captured six landlords and will try to get a committee to give him 50 do-it-yourself plumbing and general household repair kits and six army tanks. He says it takes at least six tanks to win an argument with a landlord.

"I know a man who says he wishes he could capture some of the U.S. officials who approved the Cuban landings so he could form a committee to trade them for a couple of good astrologers, gypsy fortune tellers and an oil painting of Napoleon," declares Mr. Topblower.

Kennedy Seeks Inflation Curb

By Victor Riesel

President Kennedy returned from the Vienna waltz worried that the U. S. dollar may go soft here and thus prevent a hard line on foreign fronts facing the Soviets. He told his brain trust he wants no cheapening of the dollar—and this means no new rounds of more than token wage and price increases.

Victor Riesel

He has no formula for keeping wages and prices almost level. He wants no official controls. He wants government decree freezing the vast bread and butter front. He wants advice. He wants this from the 21-man President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy.

And he wants this advice by July 10, when they meet again for two days. This national pocketbook peril will be the sole topic because the President has told them he wants no further inflation. But this will be tough advice for the committee to conjure up.

THEY'VE A PROBLEM: There is an automatic steel workers' wage increase of almost 8 cents an hour due hundreds of thousands of men on Oct. 1. This resulted from the agreement signed by the union and the steel industry in January 1960. This in turn could bring a hike in steel prices.

Furthermore, the auto workers may well be right in the midst of tough bargaining with the Big Three car makers. Walter Reuther and his colleagues are not exactly accustomed to foregoing pay hikes —especially at the moment steel pay goes up more than three dollars a week.

If some 2 million auto and steel workers' pay goes up and there are some price hikes, no matter how small both are, a new pay-price pattern will be set. As steel and auto go, so go the other mass industries.

Furthermore, as a veteran of the coverage of the 116-day steel strike, I now know why the gray steals so quickly alongside my temples. Tempus fugits more swiftly than should be expected. The new steel contract negotiations are not far off—though it seems as if the 116-day national stoppage was just settled. The contracts which wound that one up expire on June 30 next year.

THIS MEANS the United Steelworkers and the steel industry committee of 12 producing corporations are preparing for new bargaining sessions. These can begin next March or April. It takes no crystal ball to expect the union, led by David McDonald, to ask for new wage increases.

With Dave McDonald and Walter Reuther as well as Henry Ford II and Joseph Block, head of Inland Steel, on the 21-man board, it is difficult to see any unanimous advice on a wage and price holiday.

But the President wants one. And the 21-man committee may come up with something like a wage-price review board. However, it must be remembered that the advisory committee members speak only for themselves. Neither Reuther nor George Meany, while on the committee, speak for other labor leaders. Nor do Ford, Block or Thomas Watson of International Business Machines speak for the other industrialists or the Chamber of Commerce of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Without the commitment of all labor and industry, it is difficult to see how President Kennedy can get what he wants—an effective moratorium on pay and prices.

So he may attempt to set up a peacetime cold-war labor-management board.

JOHN KENNEDY might do just this on the theory that many a cold war battle will be lost if the prestige of the U.S. dollar suffers abroad.

"He is concerned," a White House economist said privately the other day, "with the cheapening of the dollar. If the world loses faith in the American dollar, if the respect for the hardness of the American dollar goes, so go we, the President believes.

"His Council of Economic Advisers has told him we're running into big inflation. Now, he doesn't want even mild inflation to soften the dollar. What is almost obsessing him is the balance of international payments, more gold going out than coming in. If wages and prices go up our stuff will be even more expensive abroad and less gold will be coming in because there will be fewer buyers abroad. So he wants a tough policy at home."

If he gets it, there will be the greatest exhibition of self-control this nation has yet seen.

Most insect - eating plants use leaves to capture food. The "steel-trap" type claps its leaf halves shut to imprison unwary insects. The "flypaper" species mire their prey in a sticky solution. Victims of the "pitfall" plants tumble to their death in a cupped pool of water mixed with digestive fluids.

Wisdom Teeth May Be On Way Out

Q. Why are wisdom teeth so named and why do they give so much trouble?

A. They are so named because they come through late and at an age when we should have acquired some wisdom. Wisdom teeth are usually of poor quality. They decay easily and are often so lifeless that they fail to erupt, becoming impacted. The consistent production of substandard merchandise may be Nature's way of eliminating wisdom teeth. She has had some experience along these lines. Early man had four molars (grinding teeth). As the jaw shortened, one molar was lost so that modern man has only three (first, second and "wisdom"). Perhaps Nature has decided to eliminate the wisdom tooth by the simple process of neglect. But don't expect immediate results. It took 500,000 years for man to discard the fourth molar!

Built-In Protection

Q. Why do fewer women than men have heart attacks?

A. One theory is that younger women have built-in protection in the form of estrogen (female sex hormone) which seems to delay hardening of the heart arteries. As the supply of hormone lessens in later life, female susceptibility to heart attacks increases to about that of men.

Before Birth Breathing

Q. Does the unborn child breathe?

A. No, not if you mean taking air into the lungs. The unborn child has no need to breathe because oxygen is obtained from the mother. However, as birth approaches the unborn child shows various kinds of activity, including respiratory (breathing) movements. Although some fluid is probably inhaled at this time, it is largely forced out of the lungs as the child passes through the birth canal. The remaining fluid is normally not sufficient in amount to prevent filling of the lungs with air when the first breath is taken.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Alencon lace and nylon tulle. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, outlined with sequins and pearls, and long, pointed sleeves.

The bouffant skirt, which ended in a chapel train, was fashioned with lace panels on the sides, back and front. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a Swedish crown of pearls.

Glenn E. McCall of Kent served as his brother's best man. Ushers were James Allison of Newell, George Dudley of Sharon, Larry Whitaker of Alliance and James Eutzler. Kirk McCall, brother of the bridegroom, was junior usher.

The mother of the bride chose an orchid chiffon dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore beige silk organza with aqua accessories. White carnation corsages complemented their attire.

A reception for 200 was held in the social rooms. The buffet table, covered with a white linen cloth, was decorated with pink maline and lily-of-the-valley. A three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple, along with three - branch silver candelabra, completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Glenn E. McCall, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. Norman Weaver, Mrs. Jack Chamberlin, Mrs. Rollin Arter and Mrs. R. G. Hendershot, aunts of the bridegroom; Mrs. Wilbur Shaffer and Misses Karen and Garnet McCall, the bridegroom's sisters; Misses Marsha Hendershot and Dianne McElhaney, his cousins; Miss Charlotte Myers and Miss Emily Linebrake and Miss Alice Wilhelm.

Wisdom Teeth May Be On Way Out

Q. Why are wisdom teeth so named and why do they give so much trouble?

A. They are so named because they come through late and at an age when we should have acquired some wisdom. Wisdom teeth are usually of poor quality. They decay easily and are often so lifeless that they fail to erupt, becoming impacted. The consistent production of substandard merchandise may be Nature's way of eliminating wisdom teeth. She has had some experience along these lines. Early man had four molars (grinding teeth). As the jaw shortened, one molar was lost so that modern man has only three (first, second and "wisdom"). Perhaps Nature has decided to eliminate the wisdom tooth by the simple process of neglect. But don't expect immediate results. It took 500,000 years for man to discard the fourth molar!

Built-In Protection

Q. Why do fewer women than men have heart attacks?

A. One theory is that younger women have built-in protection in the form of estrogen (female sex hormone) which seems to delay hardening of the heart arteries. As the supply of hormone lessens in later life, female susceptibility to heart attacks increases to about that of men.

Before Birth Breathing

Q. Does the unborn child breathe?

A. No, not if you mean taking air into the lungs. The unborn child has no need to breathe because oxygen is obtained from the mother. However, as birth approaches the unborn child shows various kinds of activity, including respiratory (breathing) movements. Although some fluid is probably inhaled at this time, it is largely forced out of the lungs as the child passes through the birth canal. The remaining fluid is normally not sufficient in amount to prevent filling of the lungs with air when the first breath is taken.

Interest Not Jolted By 11,000-Volt Line

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joe Smith was so fascinated with his new radio hobby that a massive power jolt couldn't dim his interest.

Burns on his hands from an 11,000-volt power line sent Smith, 29, to a hospital for seven weeks of skin grafts. But friends set up his citizens band transmitter and receiver in the hospital room and he resumed calls, although limited to five miles around the hospital.

Smith, a refrigerator mechanic, was burned trying to install an antenna for his rig at his Aurora, Ind., home. He won't have to go up on the roof again. He said, "I have a lot of friends and they promised me my antenna would be up by the time I get home."

Reminder To Speaker Causes 'Confusion'

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — General manager Harry S. Milligan of the daily Binghamton Sun-Bulletin was asked to address a service club in nearby Nichols.

The man who made the request called him three weeks later to remind him of the date. But he called the wrong man — Harry F. Milligan, vice president of the Marine Midland Trust Co.

The Marine Midland's Milligan checked his calendar, saw that he had nothing scheduled, and said he'd be there.

Both men appeared at the dinner. The Sun-Bulletin's Milligan spoke on "The Free Press in Troubled Times," and the Marine Midland's Milligan gave a short talk on "Confusion."

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Why Limit Your Possibilities?

From a recent magazine article, I learned of a remarkable thing that happened years ago to a boy named Alfred Adler. The story takes added interest from the fact that in later life he became the great psychiatrist from whose work has stemmed much of our present-day understanding of inferiority complex.

DR. PEALE

Young Adler from his earliest years at school was just barely above the flunking level in mathematics. For a long time he passively accepted his failure as a misfortune he would simply have to live with, for his family and teachers assured him that he was just dumb in math. But this future pioneer in the study of personality disorders was already developing a psychiatric turn of mind. Trying to analyze his own trouble as a math student, he began to wonder whether he really had to be so backward. He got the notion that maybe he could do better. He began to conceive, or picture, himself as having the ability.

THEN ONE DAY the math professor put a problem on the blackboard which baffled even the wizards in the class. Silence reigned. Nobody ventured to chance the solution.

All at once Adler saw the answer clearly pictured in his mind. He said to the professor, "I can solve it." Everybody laughed. That made him angry. It also made him hesitate an instant. But then he said to himself, "I do see it." He walked to the board, wrote out the calculations — and came up with the correct result. The class was dumbfounded!

From that day on Alfred Adler did all right in mathematics. It is wonderful what happens when a person breaks free from self-limiting obsessions.

We human beings build all sorts of limitations and mistaken notions that we can't do this and we can't do that. Where do they come from — these self-limiting concepts? Painful past experiences account for some of them; but we also pick them up from other people by an insidious process of suggestion. You are lucky if you did not receive them by the dozens from your elders.

OFTENTIMES a whole folklore of limitation is handed down from generation to generation.

You know how it goes: "How can you expect to have any ability along those lines. Neither your father nor your grandfather showed a trace of it...." Or: "You are not cut out for a job that carries heavy strain. Remember a tendency to nervous breakdown runs in the family."

This talk conditions your mental attitudes so you conclude you may as well not even try, for you are licked before you start. Therefore, you form an image of yourself as a person lacking these abilities. You think, "It's the way I am." In short you get hypnotized by that image. It becomes a psychological block limiting your success and happiness in life.

But don't be discouraged for you can get de-hypnotized. And to do this you do not have to have, like Adler, a special flair for depth psychology.

If you will turn to the great teachings of the Bible and live with them — and live by them — you will rise to a new consciousness of your true nature as a child of God. That consciousness can free you from your self-limiting ideas. You can even help other people to throw off their self-hampering attitudes.

ABOUT SIX years ago a woman visiting from another part of the country attended Sunday morning service at Marble Collegiate Church.

She was deeply troubled about her husband. He was a problem drinker, making a mess of his life, and he couldn't be persuaded to see a counselor and get some help. Well, that Sunday in my sermon I advocated holding in mind a perfect image of anything you want to see achieved. I maintained that such an image could be a powerful force for actually bringing to pass the thing pictured.

This troubled woman immediately began trying to form a perfect image of her husband as a man not defeated by a weakness but as having all the finer qualities she had seen in him when they were younger. She saw and pictured him as God's child, with limitless possibilities. She resolved that, no matter what, she would hold that image.

The next couple of years in her life were, as she put it, hell. More than once, she thought to herself that this perfect image business must be a lot of nonsense. But she persisted in holding the image even though it seemed hopeless.

Gradually her husband began to change. A new man emerged in him. Of the person he is now she says, "After six long years of many ups and downs he has taken the form of the image I held of him."

An old Oriental maxim says: "What you think upon grows." You become what you image yourself as being. Get a new image of yourself as a child of God having much greater possibilities than have ever appeared. Don't self-limit your possibilities.

Squeak Built To Keep Air Base Pilots Happy

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Most Air Force maintenance men are trying to get rid of squeaks, but Sgt. Charles E. Cloney and Airman Thomas Saliski invented one to keep George Air Force Base pilots happy.

The base has a Link trainer in which pilots go through all the motions and most of the experiences of flying without ever leaving the ground. Used to keep fliers proficient in use of instruments, the trainer simulates airplane motion, engine noise and other flight sensations.

But pilots complained that "landings" in the trainer lacked realism because there was no squeak as tires supposedly made initial friction contact with the runway. Cloney and Saliski fixed that by constructing an electronic gadget that's connected to the trainer's electrical system to give a realistic squeak at the appropriate moment.

Robbers Take Heed Of This Ohio Bank

OSGOOD, Ohio (AP) — A potential bank robber would find himself behind bars before he could get started at the Osgood State Bank. A handmade steel cell is right inside the entrance, and anyone entering must be recognized or give evidence of legitimate business before the inner door, leading to the bank, is opened.

The cell has been in place 30 years. It was installed after there were three robberies in 14 years. Officials say they know of at least one case where two men tried for another bank robbery admitted being stymied at Osgood.

Three district sisters who had not seen each other in nearly 25 years have finally been reunited and will hold a family reunion tonight.

The event will be at 6 at the home of a nephew, Boyd Justice, of Smiths Ferry R. D., with 24 to attend.

Mrs. Minnie Vickers of Bainbridge, Ga., wrote Mayor Burt Goodballet last January, asking help in trying to locate her relatives. They lost track of each other about 1937.

The mayor turned the letter over to The Review and a story was printed of the sister's request for information as to the whereabouts of the others.

The response was quick. Mrs. Ellen Louk and Mrs. Isabell Cooper, both of East Palestine, realized the Georgia woman was their sister. Letters followed and the reunion was arranged.

Their parents were Otto Nicolas Tice and Mrs. Laura Bell Tice, who resided in Ohio Township. Mrs. Vickers was 3 when her father died and 13 when the mother died and she was placed in the Fairmont Children's Home at Alliance, where she was reared.

Serves Off Alaska

Former Trinity Pastor's Son Will Be Pulpit Guest

The Rev. Arthur E. French III, a missionary from the St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, off the coast of Alaska — and only 35 miles from Russia — will be the guest speaker at the 11 a. m. worship Sunday at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, where his father formerly served. He was graduated from the College of Wooster in 1953 and then entered Princeton Seminary.

Shortly after his marriage to the former Miss Carolyn Venable of Wooster, a registered nurse, they went to St. Lawrence Island to serve the church at Gambell.

Interest Not Jolted By 11,000-Volt Line

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joe Smith was so fascinated with his new radio hobby that a massive power jolt couldn't dim his interest.

Burns on his hands from an 11,000-volt power line sent Smith, 29, to a hospital for seven weeks of skin grafts. But friends set up his citizens band transmitter and receiver in the hospital room and he resumed calls, although limited to five miles around the hospital.

Smith, a refrigerator mechanic, was burned trying to install an antenna for his rig at his Aurora, Ind., home. He won't have to go up on the roof again. He said, "I have a lot of friends and they promised me my antenna would be up by the time I get home."

Reminder To Speaker Causes 'Confusion'

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — General manager Harry S. Milligan of the daily Binghamton Sun-Bulletin was asked to address a service club in nearby Nichols.

The man who made the request called him three weeks later to remind him of the date. But he called the wrong man — Harry F. Milligan, vice president of the Marine Midland Trust Co.

The Marine Midland's Milligan checked his calendar, saw that he had nothing scheduled, and said he'd be there.

Both men appeared at the dinner. The Sun-Bulletin's Milligan spoke on "The Free Press in Troubled Times," and the Marine Midland's Milligan gave a short talk on "Confusion."

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Why Limit Your Possibilities?

From a recent magazine article, I learned of a remarkable thing that happened years ago to a boy named Alfred Adler. The story takes added interest from the fact that in later life he became the great psychiatrist from whose work has stemmed much of our present-day understanding of inferiority complex.

DR. PEALE

Young Adler from his earliest years at school was just barely above the flunking level in mathematics. For a long time he passively accepted his failure as a misfortune he would simply have to live with, for his family and teachers assured him that he was just dumb in math. But this future pioneer in the study of personality disorders was already developing a psychiatric turn of mind. Trying to analyze his own trouble as a math student, he began to wonder whether he really had to be so backward. He got the notion that maybe he could do better. He began to conceive, or picture, himself as having the ability.

THEN ONE DAY the math professor put a problem on the blackboard which baffled even the wizards in the class. Silence reigned. Nobody ventured to chance the solution.

All at once Adler saw the answer clearly pictured in his mind. He said to the professor, "I can solve it." Everybody laughed. That made him angry. It also made him hesitate an instant. But then he said to himself, "I do see it." He walked to the board, wrote out the calculations — and came up with the correct result. The class was dumbfounded!

From that day on Alfred Adler did all right in mathematics. It is wonderful what happens when a person breaks free from self-limiting obsessions.

We human beings build all sorts of limitations and mistaken notions that we can't do this and we can't do that. Where do they come from — these self-limiting concepts? Painful past experiences account for some of them; but we also pick them up from other people by an insidious process of suggestion. You are lucky if you did not receive them by the dozens from your elders.

OFTENTIMES a whole folklore of limitation is handed down from generation to generation.

You know how it goes: "How can you expect to have any ability along those lines. Neither your father nor your grandfather showed a trace of it...." Or: "You are not cut out for a job that carries heavy strain. Remember a tendency to nervous breakdown runs in the family."

This talk conditions your mental attitudes so you conclude you may as well not even try, for you are licked before you start. Therefore, you form an image of yourself as a person lacking these abilities. You think, "It's the way I am." In short you get hypnotized by that image. It becomes a psychological block limiting your success and happiness in life.

But don't be discouraged for you can get de-hypnotized. And to do this you do not have to have, like Adler, a special flair for depth psychology.

If you will turn to the great teachings of the Bible and live with them — and live by them — you will rise to a new consciousness of your true nature as a child of God. That consciousness can free you from your self-limiting ideas. You can even help other people to throw off their self-hampering attitudes.

ABOUT SIX years ago a woman visiting from another part of the country attended Sunday morning service at Marble Collegiate Church.

She was deeply troubled about her husband. He was a problem drinker, making a mess of his life, and he couldn't be persuaded to see a counselor and get some help. Well, that Sunday in my sermon I advocated holding in mind a perfect image of anything you want to see achieved. I maintained that such an image could be a powerful force for actually bringing to pass the thing pictured.

This troubled woman immediately began trying to form a perfect image of her husband as a man not defeated by a weakness but as having all the finer qualities she had seen in him when they were younger. She saw and pictured him as God's child, with limitless possibilities. She resolved that, no matter what, she would hold that image.

The next couple of years in her life were, as she put it, hell. More than once, she thought to herself that this perfect image business must be a lot of nonsense. But she persisted in holding the image even though it seemed hopeless.

Gradually her husband began to change. A new man emerged in him. Of the person he is now she says, "After six long years of many ups and downs he has taken the form of the image I held of him."

An old Oriental maxim says: "What you think upon grows." You become what you image yourself as being. Get a new image of yourself as a child of God having much greater possibilities than have ever appeared. Don't self-limit your possibilities.

Squeak Built To Keep Air Base Pilots Happy

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Most Air Force maintenance men are trying to get rid of squeaks, but Sgt. Charles E. Cloney and Airman Thomas Saliski invented one to keep George Air Force Base pilots happy.

The base has a Link trainer in which pilots go through all the motions and most of the experiences of flying without ever leaving the ground. Used to keep fliers proficient in use of instruments, the trainer simulates airplane motion, engine noise and other flight sensations.

But pilots complained that "landings" in the trainer lacked realism because there was no squeak as tires supposedly made initial friction contact with the runway. Cloney and Saliski fixed that by constructing an electronic gadget that's connected to the trainer's electrical system to give a realistic squeak at the appropriate moment.

Robbers Take Heed Of This Ohio Bank

OSGOOD, Ohio (AP) — A potential bank robber would find himself behind bars before he could get started at the Osgood State Bank. A handmade steel cell is right inside the entrance, and anyone entering must be recognized or give evidence of legitimate business before the inner door, leading to the bank, is opened.

The cell has been in place 30 years. It was installed after there were three robberies in 14 years. Officials say they know of at least one case where two men tried for another bank robbery admitted being stymied at Osgood.

The mayor turned the letter over to The Review and a story was printed of the sister's request for information as to the whereabouts of the others.

The response was quick. Mrs. Ellen Louk and Mrs. Isabell Cooper, both of East Palestine, realized the Georgia woman was their sister. Letters followed and the reunion was arranged.

Their parents were Otto Nicolas Tice and Mrs. Laura Bell Tice, who resided in Ohio Township. Mrs. Vickers was 3 when her father died and 13 when the mother died and she was placed in the Fairmont Children's Home at Alliance, where she was reared.

Bishop Werner To Name Pastors

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP)—Ministerial appointments for the coming year, to be made by Bishop Hazen G. Werner and his cabinet of district superintendents, highlight activities at the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church today.

The appointments will be made in the evening. The six-day meeting of the 2,000 delegates closes with Sunday devotional services. A series of resolutions and reports were heard at Friday's session.

Delegates spoke out againstt he John Birch Society, an ultra-conservative group which claims thousands of Protestant clergymen are unwitting tools of the Communist conspiracy.

The conference expressed the conviction Americans can best serve the cause of freedom by working to alleviate conditions upon with communism thrives — injustice, poverty and discrimination. Delegates said they realize clergymen are human and open to error in judgment on social issues, but reaffirmed the work of the American clergy as representing one of the staunchest safeguards against communist through.

The Rev. Fred Knickrehm of Chillicothe said in a report for the division of peace and world order that it was time the church stopped giving only lip service to its support of the United Nations. There should be as much emphasis on the nature and work of the U.N. as is now given to the study of missionary and evangelistic programs, he said.

Half Of U.S. Families Earned $5,600 In '60

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half of all American families had money incomes of at least $5,600 in 1960 —$200 more than in 1959.

But the increase, the Census Bureau reported Friday, was worth only half as much in purchasing power.

Satellites Have Warned Of High Velocity Dust

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two U.S. satellites that stopped broadcasting last December—Explorer VIII and Vanguard III—have warned scientists that future space travelers may be bombarded by large numbers of high-velocity dust particles.

This cosmic dust—fast-moving clouds of micro-meteorites near the earth—appears to be in orbit around the sun, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday.

Analysis of the tapes of telemetry information sent back by the two satellites showed that most of the particles "could be associated with a major meteor stream," NASA said.

If big enough, the particles presumably could puncture a spaceship. Also, they may have a corrosive effect.

The two satellites, operating a year apart, apparently probed the same meteor stream—the Leonid star shower that occurs every Nov. 14. The Leonids are shooting stars so named because they seem to move in lines radiating from a point in the constellation Leo.

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County commissioners are considering a strict economy to help solve the county's fiscal problems. J. F. Bishop Werner To Name Pastors

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP)—Ministerial appointments for the coming year, to be made by Bishop Hazen G. Werner and his cabinet of district superintendents, highlight activities at the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church today.

The appointments will be made in the evening. The six-day meeting of the 2,000 delegates closes with Sunday devotional services. A series of resolutions and reports were heard at Friday's session.

Delegates spoke out againstt he John Birch Society, an ultra-conservative group which claims thousands of Protestant clergymen are unwitting tools of the Communist conspiracy.

The conference expressed the conviction Americans can best serve the cause of freedom by working to alleviate conditions upon with communism thrives — injustice, poverty and discrimination. Delegates said they realize clergymen are human and open to error in judgment on social issues, but reaffirmed the work of the American clergy as representing one of the staunchest safeguards against communist through.

The Rev. Fred Knickrehm of Chillicothe said in a report for the division of peace and world order that it was time the church stopped giving only lip service to its support of the United Nations. There should be as much emphasis on the nature and work of the U.N. as is now given to the study of missionary and evangelistic programs, he said.

Half Of U.S. Families Earned $5,600 In '60

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half of all American families had money incomes of at least $5,600 in 1960 —$200 more than in 1959.

But the increase, the Census Bureau reported Friday, was worth only half as much in purchasing power.

Satellites Have Warned Of High Velocity Dust

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two U.S. satellites that stopped broadcasting last December—Explorer VIII and Vanguard III—have warned scientists that future space travelers may be bombarded by large numbers of high-velocity dust particles.

This cosmic dust—fast-moving clouds of micro-meteorites near the earth—appears to be in orbit around the sun, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday.

Analysis of the tapes of telemetry information sent back by the two satellites showed that most of the particles "could be associated with a major meteor stream," NASA said.

If big enough, the particles presumably could puncture a spaceship. Also, they may have a corrosive effect.

The two satellites, operating a year apart, apparently probed the same meteor stream—the Leonid star shower that occurs every Nov. 14. The Leonids are shooting stars so named because they seem to move in lines radiating from a point in the constellation Leo.

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-two school construction inspectors — about one third of the staff—have been suspended in a growing scandal over payoffs by contractors.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced the suspensions Friday, saying the 32 were accused of accepting gifts from concerns working for the Board of Education.

Investigation Commissioner Louis I. Kaplan told the mayor he had uncovered 47 incidents of board of education employes accepting Christmas liquor, gift certificates and similar items from contractors whose work they were supposed to supervise.

Eye Strict Economy

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County commissioners are considering a strict economy to help solve the county's fiscal problems. J. F. Paschal, county auditor, told the commissioners Friday that a two-mill operating levy would be the solution of the problem caused by what he described as poor tax collection and excessive spending by officials. The commissioners indicated they would not immediately ask for the levy by having it put on the ballot.

Indians Nip Tigers, 5-4; Pirates Lose To Giants, 9-6

Yanks Defeat A's; Nats Top Chisox Twice

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians defeated second place Detroit 5-4 on Bubba Phillips' ninth-inning home run and 4 2-3 innings of one-hit relief by Barry Latman Friday night for a 1½-game lead in the American League race.

Benefit Game Slated Sunday At Palestine

A team picked from the Cox-Merchants of East Liverpool and East Palestine Merchants will meet the Cleveland White Sox in a benefit game Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at East Palestine City Park. Proceeds will go towards defraying expenses of injured players in the County-City League. Price of tickets is 50 cents.

Third place New York stayed within three games of Cleveland by beating the Kansas City A's 8-6. Washington swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, winning 1-0, in 10 innings, and 10-9. Boston defeated Los Angeles 5-3 in the first game of a twi-night pair, but the Angels took the nightcap 5-1, with Ryne Duren striking out seven in a row for an AL record. The Minnesota-Baltimore game was rained out.

Phillips' winning shot came on a 3-2 pitch by Paul Foytack (3-4), the loser in relief. Willie Kirkland delivered a three-run homer as Cleveland scored four in the third inning off starter Phil Regan. Latman had just one lapse, giving up a tying double by Rocky Colavito after relieving Bobby Locke in a two-run fifth inning.

The Indians won with the help of a rookie's running error. The game ended with an odd double-play when catcher Johnny Romano grabbed a foul pop by Steve Boros, then nailed pinch-runner George Thomas as he attempted to go from first to second after the catch.

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, each crashing home runs, batted in six runs between them for the Yankees. Maris' 18th homer, tops in the majors, came with a man on base and broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh against Ray Herbert (3-6). Luis Arroyo (2-2) won it in relief.

The Senators beat the White Sox on a pinch-single by Harry Bright in the opener as Dick Donovan, a Sox castoff, blanked his ex-mates on six hits for his second victory. Reliever Warren Hacker (1-1) was the loser. In the nightcap, Washington came up with four runs in the ninth, beating Frank Baumann (4-5) in relief with an unearned run on Danny O'Connell's pinch single. Dale Long and Willie Tasby hit consecutive home runs in the rally, which gave reliever Johnny Klippstein his first victory.

Duren (2-6), making his first start, began his record string by fanning Frank Malzone for the final out in the first inning of the second game at Boston. He then added Pete Runnels, Jim Pagliaroni, Don Buddin, loser Mike Fornieles, Chuck Schilling and Gary Geiger, falling one short of the major league record set by Milwaukee's Max Surkont in 1953.

The Red Sox beat Art Fowler (0-2) in the opener on a pair of two-run singles by Schilling and Vic Wertz in the fifth inning. Billy Muffett (2-5) was the winner.

Duren Whiffs 7 Straight To Set New AL Record

BOSTON (AP) — Rhyne Duren made one of his rare starts Friday night and struck out seven Red Sox batters in a row for an American League record, but he isn't too impressed over the feat.

The Los Angeles hurler, winner in the second game of a doubleheader, added:

"I like to win, rather win than set records, even though all of us like 'em (records). I've had lots of strikeouts and I've pitched in World Series."

His SO total was 11 and he received credit for a 5-1 victory.

8-5 Choice Over Rinaldi

Moore Favored To Retain Lightheavy Title Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A sleek if aging Archie Moore gets down to business tonight in defense of his piece of the light heavyweight title against young, husky Giulio Rinaldi of Italy.

If the graying, 44½-year-old marvel hasn't lost too much in the battle of the scales and with father time, he figures to knock out the Italian from Anzio within five rounds of their scheduled 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Rinaldi is 26.

Archie's vitality is the only question mark in this television scrap. If he's got enough left it will be arriverderci Giulio—and early. Moore is favored at odds ranging from 8-5 to 2-1.

This will be Moore's ninth defense of the title he won 8½ years ago and his first since he flattened crude but powerful Yvon Durelle of Canada at Montreal 22 months ago. He weighed 174½ pounds for that return fight. Since then the National Boxing Association has stripped him of his title. He is recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Moore, holder of the world record of 130 knockouts, has flattened his last six challengers in title fights. Only Joey Maxim has gone the distance with him at the 175-pound division limit.

The strong-armed, master boxer and puncher wrested the crown from Maxim at St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952 on a lop-sided decision.

Rinaldi, solidly built and deep-chested, earned his big chance by outpointing Moore in a 10-rounder in the Olympic Sports Palace in Rome, last Oct. 29. Moore was a plump 190¼ to Rinaldi's 181½.

Although Moore was given a mandatory eight-count while leaning back against the ropes in the last round, Rinaldi was awarded the verdict by only a slim margin.

The black-haired Italian, who was only one-year-old when Archie started boxing pro a quarter-century ago, has a 25-5 record with eight knockouts. He is the Italian light heavyweight champion.

After his victory—even if disputed and close—he has to be conceded a chance to beat the old man. But Giulio has not shown to advantage in his workouts here.

He has displayed little power and appears wide-open. If he presses Archie—as he must to win—and leaves an opening, it could be disastrous.

"He can't punch hard when he's going back," said Giulio. "I noticed that in my fight with him and I saw what Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson did to him when I watched the films. They pressed him and they knocked him out. I think I can too."

"All I hope is that he comes after me like he says he will," said Moore.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Although the fight will be shown on television in the city as well as coast-to-coast, garden officials expect to attract a crowd of 10,000 as a gross gate of $50,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $15. The big money comes from TV, which is paying $150,000.

Moore has been guaranteed $100,000 plus $12,000 expenses. Rinaldi will collect $25,000 plus expenses.

Vets Plate Glass Wins First Half In LL Play

Veterans Plate Glass punched across a run in the fifth inning to break a 5-5 deadlock and defeat Golden Star, 6-5, to sweep the first half of Little League play in the American Division Friday.

Second half action in both divisions opens Monday. Burbick's won the National Division with a sparkling 7-1 record.

Millirons got off to a blazing start with four runs in the first frame and two more in the second to defeat Travelers Hotel, 6-2.

Rick Cunningham pitched Millirons to the victory, fanning seven. Frank Tice of Travelers was charged with the defeat.

In one other game Friday, Chester Legion, the cellar-dwellers in the National Division, broke a seven-game losing streak with a victory over the Medics, 12-6, in a slugfest.

Bob Bickar and Dan Morgan combined their pitching talents to hurl VPG to the narrow victory over Golden Star. Bickar fanned seven before giving way to Morgan who received credit for the win.

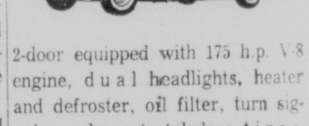

Bill Cunningham was tagged with the loss. He was relieved by Butch Beadnell.

Golden Star showed a seven-hit attack, led by doubles by Tim Cunningham, Gary Klembara, Cunningham and Dennis Klembara. Cunningham also singled.

Greg Gerace led the winners with a triple and a single.

Finley hurled Chester Legion to its first victory of the season, striking out six. He defeated McDonald of the Medics who fanned seven.

Earl Diddle doubled and singled to lead Chester at the plate. Buzz Arrington socked a home run and singled for the Medics, who hang in second place in the National Division.

Oklahoma State Defeats Duke In NCAA's Opener

OMAHA (AP) — The NCAA Baseball World Series, off to a thrilling start when Oklahoma State beat Duke on a ninth-inning home run Friday night, had a three-game slate scheduled today.

The three games that will complete the first round sent Colorado State College against Syracuse, Western Michigan against Boston College and Southern California against Texas.

In Friday night's opener, Duke rode a 2-1 lead into the last of the ninth, gained on the two-run homer of Lynn Feder in the third inning.

Then State, the pre-tourney favorite, mounted its winning rally as Gentry Pollitte singled and was sacrificed to second. That brought up Bill Ketchum to hit for pitcher Jim Wixson. Ketchum homered for a 3-2 win that gave Wixson his 11th victory this season without defeat.

T. S. & T., Cornells Win In Minor League

John Smith struck out 14 batters to hurl Taylor, Smith & Taylor to a 10-5 victory over First National Bank in Little Minor League play Friday evening.

The pottery entry uncorked a 13-hit attack off First National pitcher Canne. First National was limited to six hits, the big one a homer by S. Cochran.

Dodgers Gain Lead As Reds Bow, 8-To-4

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Drysdale pitched a four-hitter for his first victory in a month Friday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Philadelphia 3-1 and regained a half-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League race. St. Louis beat the Reds 8-4.

Wellsville's Minor Loop Calls Meeting

Team managers and all parents of Wellsville Minor Baseball League performers have been asked to attend a meeting following the game Monday evening at 6 at Wesco Field. Virgil Kornbau is league president.

San Francisco twice came from behind for a 9-6 victory over Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 11-10.

Wally Moon's 11th home run, his first since May 12, broke a 1-1 tie for the Dodgers in the fourth inning against right-hander Frank Sullivan (2-7). Don Demeter, an ex-Dodger, had two of the Phils' hits, driving in their run with a fourth inning double. Drysdale (4-3) walked three and struck out seven for his first complete game since beating the Phils 5-2 in a five-inning game May 9.

The Cards, winning four in a row for the first time and climbing back to .500 with 13 victories in their last 20 games, built a decisive, 5-3 lead against the Reds with a three-run third inning. Ken Boyer's single drove in two, and Stan Musial brought in the winner against lefty Jim O'Toole (5-6). Bob Gibson (3-3) was the winner.

San Francisco overhauled the Pirates on a three-run homer by Ed Bailey that capped a six-run seventh inning. It came after Bobby Shantz had come in as Pittsburgh's third pitcher, but tagged the loss on Elroy Face (2-3). Ed Bolin won his first in the majors, in relief. Bailey drove in four of the Giants' runs and Orlando Cepeda, the NL's home run leader, knocked in three, one with his 16th homer.

The Cubs, blew 6-0 and 9-6 leads as the Braves' unloaded four home runs, then came from behind with two runs in the ninth and beat Warren Spahn for the first time in nine decisions since June 10, 1958. A single by Moe Thacker brought in the clincher and handed Spahn (6-6) his second loss in two days, this one in relief. Joe Torre, Joe Adcock, Ed Mathews and Lee Maye homered for the Braves, with Maye's a grand slam in the ninth that gave Milwaukee a 10-9 lead. Bob Anderson (3-5) won it in relief.

8-5 Choice Over Rinaldi

Moore Favored To Retain Lightheavy Title Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A sleek if aging Archie Moore gets down to business tonight in defense of his piece of the light heavyweight title against young, husky Giulio Rinaldi of Italy.

If the graying, 44½-year-old marvel hasn't lost too much in the battle of the scales and with father time, he figures to knock out the Italian from Anzio within five rounds of their scheduled 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Rinaldi is 26.

Archie's vitality is the only question mark in this television scrap. If he's got enough left it will be arriverderci Giulio—and early. Moore is favored at odds ranging from 8-5 to 2-1.

This will be Moore's ninth defense of the title he won 8½ years ago and his first since he flattened crude but powerful Yvon Durelle of Canada at Montreal 22 months ago. He weighed 174½ pounds for that return fight. Since then the National Boxing Association has stripped him of his title. He is recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Moore, holder of the world record of 130 knockouts, has flattened his last six challengers in title fights. Only Joey Maxim has gone the distance with him at the 175-pound division limit.

The strong-armed, master boxer and puncher wrested the crown from Maxim at St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952 on a lop-sided decision.

Rinaldi, solidly built and deep-chested, earned his big chance by outpointing Moore in a 10-rounder in the Olympic Sports Palace in Rome, last Oct. 29. Moore was a plump 190¼ to Rinaldi's 181½.

Although Moore was given a mandatory eight-count while leaning back against the ropes in the last round, Rinaldi was awarded the verdict by only a slim margin.

The black-haired Italian, who was only one-year-old when Archie started boxing pro a quarter-century ago, has a 25-5 record with eight knockouts. He is the Italian light heavyweight champion.

After his victory—even if disputed and close—he has to be conceded a chance to beat the old man. But Giulio has not shown to advantage in his workouts here.

He has displayed little power and appears wide-open. If he presses Archie—as he must to win—and leaves an opening, it could be disastrous.

"He can't punch hard when he's going back," said Giulio. "I noticed that in my fight with him and I saw what Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson did to him when I watched the films. They pressed him and they knocked him out. I think I can too."

"All I hope is that he comes after me like he says he will," said Moore.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Although the fight will be shown on television in the city as well as coast-to-coast, garden officials expect to attract a crowd of 10,000 as a gross gate of $50,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $15. The big money comes from TV, which is paying $150,000.

Moore has been guaranteed $100,000 plus $12,000 expenses. Rinaldi will collect $25,000 plus expenses.

Vets Plate Glass Wins First Half In LL Play

Veterans Plate Glass punched across a run in the fifth inning to break a 5-5 deadlock and defeat Golden Star, 6-5, to sweep the first half of Little League play in the American Division Friday.

Second half action in both divisions opens Monday. Burbick's won the National Division with a sparkling 7-1 record.

Rick Cunningham pitched Millirons to the victory, fanning seven. Frank Tice of Travelers was charged with the defeat.

In one other game Friday, Chester Legion, the cellar-dwellers in the National Division, broke a seven-game losing streak with a victory over the Medics, 12-6, in a slugfest.

Bob Bickar and Dan Morgan combined their pitching talents to hurl VPG to the narrow victory over Golden Star. Bickar fanned seven before giving way to Morgan who received credit for the win.

Bill Cunningham was tagged with the loss. He was relieved by Butch Beadnell.

Golden Star showed a seven-hit attack, led by doubles by Tim Cunningham, Gary Klembara, Cunningham and Dennis Klembara. Cunningham also singled.

Greg Gerace led the winners with a triple and a single.

Finley hurled Chester Legion to its first victory of the season, striking out six. He defeated McDonald of the Medics who fanned seven.

Earl Diddle doubled and singled to lead Chester at the plate. Buzz Arrington socked a home run and singled for the Medics, who hang in second place in the National Division.

Trustees O.K. Street Work

"Chip" jobs — oil emulsion and slag — will be applied on LaCroft Ave., 1st Ave., 2nd Ave. and Homestead Ave.

The residents will pay for the emulsion while the township will purchase the slag and do the work.

The trustees granted 30-day sick leave to Lawrence Twyford, township police constable. The Board of Elections asked for an early filing of any tax levies to appear on the November ballot.

A notice was received from the state informing the trustees all elected employes of the township, city and county are covered by workmen's compensation in case they are injured while working.

A meeting will be held Wednesday morning with a representative of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. to discuss coverage on all township buildings and equipment. The insurance program is being revised.

Next meeting is June 23.

Jobless Claims Show Slight Rise For Past Week

A slight increase in claims for unemployment compensation this week in the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Employment Service was reported by Harry L. Dinsmore, manager.

A total of 941 claims for jobless benefits were processed this week, compared to 936 last week, Dinsmore said.

The claims included 758 regular claims and 203 under the federal extension program. The regular filings included 93 new claims and 645 continued while 15 new claims were filed under the extension and 188 were continued.

Meanwhile, Dinsmore said the office has abandoned its Thursday night hours because "it was not worthwhile." Too few people took advantage of the night hours, Dinsmore explained.

Meanwhile, he announced the formation of an employment service advisory council to offer suggestions on how the office can better serve the community.

Ohioan's Murder Trial In Recess

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The five-day murder trial of Byron Ashbrook, accused of strangling his wife last Christmas Eve, is in recess until Monday.

Testimony Friday was highlighted by the statement of a doctor that Ashbrook, 38, a member of a prominent Ohio family, admitted choking his wife to death.

Dr. Jack Hirsch said the admission came while he was conducting tests on Ashbrook after his arrest last Christmas Day.

Dist. Atty. John Mendoza's plan to introduce another alleged confession—this one given to police—was held up until next week.

Mendoza and defense attorneys argued for more than an hour over introduction of various items of evidence, including blood taken from the dead woman, the former Betty Jane Puffer.

Special Aid Due 5 Ohio Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five depressed areas in Ohio have been named eligible for special federal aid to help curtail heavy and persistent unemployment.

The five are among 114 areas in the nation which will benefit in nearly $400 million of federal loans and grants designed to revive their economies.

They include: Athens-Logan-Nelsonville, Batavia - Georgetown-West Union, Cambridge, Portsmouth-Chillicothe and Point Pleasant, W. Va.-Gallipolis.

Among the other areas listed were Wheeling, W. Va., and Huntington-Ashland.

Considers Request

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Charles E. Weber of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court is considering a request by Leslie D. Stickler, Cincinnati attorney accused of violating Ohio security laws, for a continuance of his trial which is scheduled to begin June 15. The attorney for Stickler, central figure in a $3.5 million fraud case, also asked Judge Weber to order the county prosecutor to provide particulars about Stickler's alleged offenses and to seek the return of papers seized March 9 by the federal referee in bankruptcy.

Assembly Speeds Work

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — With the tentative goal for winding up the working sessions of the 104th General Assembly about two weeks away, it's getting easier to spot the legislation earmarked for ultimate passage.

Committee schedules are noticeably shorter than they were even a couple of weeks ago, so it is obvious that what isn't moving isn't going to move.

A rundown of earlier statements on what the Republican leadership hoped to accomplish during the 1961 session shows about two score bills — not counting the appropriations measures — still to be processed.

More Work for Senate

An interesting aspect of this cursory bit of research is that the Senate has more work cut out for it in the waning weeks than the House does. Of 21 bills on the list, 15 are pending in the upper chamber as of this moment, the bulk of them still in committee.

That probably explains why the Senate has been convening in the afternoon on Thursdays to permit longer morning hearings before weekend recesses. It also explains why Senate committee schedules are heavier than House ones and why the Senate plans to stay over until Friday this week.

Another side note of the sampling is that all the 15 bills pending in the Senate have been acted on by the House.

Three To Go

Substituting specifics for statistics, only three of the total 21 have yet to pass both houses:

THE INCREASE in employers' contributions to the unemployment compensation fund, which will be on the House floor Monday.

THE BILL to tighten up lobbying restrictions, which was scheduled for House action Thursday but was put off to Monday at Speaker Roger Cloud's request.

THE SCHOOL SUBSIDY bill, which has been held up to see how much money can be skimmed out of the administration's general appropriations proposal.

Since even hallowed hopes can fall by the wayside in the rush to close up shop, it is safe to say that not all the 21 will find their way into the Ohio law books.

Conspiracy Bill Waits

This appears to be the case with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's criminal conspiracy bill, which won the backing of House leaders but has been resting unnoticed in the Senate Judiciary Committee since early April. That, incidentally, is where a similar measure died in the 1959 session.

The fate of a couple of other pet administration proposals is nip and tuck with time and the legislative tide.

The effort to tighten up controls on conflicts of interest among government officials went from the House to the Senate about the middle of April but is just getting around to having its first hearing there this week.

And the lobbying bill, changed considerably from its original form and undergoing further study by Cloud this weekend, will have to hurry along — if it wins the House's okay Monday.

May End Tax Stamps

On the other hand, rumor has it that the DiSalle campaign to abolish sales tax stamps will succeed. Revised and backed by the GOP leaders in the House, the bill was sent to the Senate just after the Memorial Day recess and rushed into committee hearings last week.

Any discussion of marked-for-special-handling bills eventually must get around to the proposal to create a 24th congressional district in the southwestern part of the state.

Fraught as it is with political considerations, its fate poses the $64 question of the remaining days of the session.

The cynics predicted early in the game it never would get out of the House subcommittee to which it was assigned with several other proposals. But it did.

The Box Score

Then they said it never would get out of the parent committee. It did.

They they said it never would reach the House floor. It did—and passed.

Will it get past the Senate and then be adorned with the governor's signature?

The skeptics still say it won't. They contend the Republicans feel they would have the advantage in an at-large race, which will be the result if no district materializes, and that State Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Cincinnati, wants a statewide race in preparation for a try for U.S. senator later on.

Others argue the Republicans would have as good a chance to win the 24th seat in the new district of Clearmont, Warren and Butler counties and that Taft can safely go for Congress in his home 1st District since U.S. Rep. Gordon H. Scherer plans to retire after his current term.

What About DiSalle?

These people also argue that DiSalle would go along with the new district because it would avert an at-large contest and the Democrats would have a 50-50 chance of winning in the new district.

So what will happen in the Senate?

Item: The redistricting bill is scheduled for a hearing this week.

A bit of "interservice" rivalry has developed between the chairmen of the House and Senate Judiciary committees, which traditionally bear the heaviest burden of legislative work.

One manifestation of the small-scale feud is the disappointment of Rep. Edmund G. James, R-Noble, head of the House group, over the failure of Sen. Fred Hoffman, R-Cincinnati, his Senate counterpart, to push the bill to outlaw conspiracies to violate gambling and vice laws.

Despite its initiation by the Democratic governor, Republican James took personal charge of the bill when it came to his committee and fostered bipartisan support for its passage by the House.

Peeved on Hearings

James also was peeved when Hoffman scheduled hearings on three antigambling bills one at a time instead of in a package, which is the way the House group handled them.

The three proposals—aimed at cracking down on commercialized numbers, bookmaking and sports pools rackets—were endorsed strongly by the office of Democratic Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy.

Said James:

"Despite the political considerations that might enter into these things, I believe we have a responsibility to the people of Ohio to support whatever legislation would benefit them.

"All these bills (conspiracy and antigambling) are important if we are going to drive out and keep out sinister operators of commercialized vice. I think they are good bills and that's why I put so much time on them."

Portland Police Seek Identity To Body Of Woman

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police today sought clues to the identity of a young woman, pieces of whose body were found in three different places in southeast Portland Thursday morning.

They questioned the owner of a blood-stained automobile but said he was cleared after a lie-detector test. The car was parked in the neighborhood where the body sections were discovered.

Police with hunting dogs covered the area in an unsuccessful search for the rest of the body. Sewer trunk lines also were probed without result.

The body pieces found were feet, a hand and parts of an arm and a thigh.

Prints of a thumb and three fingers were obtained but Charles Hamilton, supervisor of the police identification bureau, said these would have to be checked manually against more than 150,000 local cards.

Byron H. Shields, chief of detectives, said time of death could not be established.

The statue is to be a gift from the American people, as our own Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was a gift from the people of France.

Construction Worker Is Killed By Flames

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joseph Lindsey, a Licking County construction worker, was killed Friday by flames that spurted out of a partially completed building wrecked by a gas line explosion.

Lindsey, about 50, of Heath was helping to install a high pressure gas line around the University City Shopping Center, being built on the city's north side. Officials said a connection on the line broke and let gas escape. Then something ignited it.

The victim suffered third-degree burns over 60 per cent of his body, firemen said.

Loss was not determined to the one-story concrete building. But firemen said two trucks were damaged to the extent of $1,800.

Bettis Explains Issue

County Representatives Back Bill Aiding Villages

State Reps. Clarence Wetzel and J. Warren Bettis voted together on a bill approved by the Ohio House this week which would limit state power over villages in water pollution control.

The measure, passed 88-33, would put upon the Water Pollution Control Board the burden of proving that a particular village is polluting the waters of the state by discharge of sewage or industrial waste.

Rep. Bettis said today the proposal would be better than the present practice of "arbitrarily ordering villages to put in vast and expensive sewage systems."

"Many villages such as the one I live in would be financially bankrupt and taxpayers burdened with a heavy debt for many years if forced to install an unneeded system.

"For example in Salineville, which has a tax valuation of some $900,000, the control board is insisting on installation of a plant costing some $600,000. The cost plus interest alone would run in excess of the total valuation," Bettis declared.

"This seems to me to be completely unfair when the village has an adequate sewage disposal system, and the waters that lead away from the village do not and cannot pollute the Ohio River, some 15 miles away."

"After all, the system as required is nothing more than a primary treatment or a 'super septic tank.' This bill would allow the local health department to supervise and control the sewage problems of the various local subdivisions, in accordance with my thinking of keeping controls at the local level in the operation of home rule."

Bettis and Wetzel also voted in favor of bills to permit local objection to issuance of liquor permits (passed 85-24), to permit deduction of beer and wine taxes from the U. S. income tax (passed 90-19) and to exempt air and water pollution facilities from taxes (passed 71-59).

They voted against a bill to reduce minimum space limit in nursing homes (defeated 42-85) and to require counties to approve city withdrawal from townships (passed 80-36).

State Sens. Arthur Black and Edmund Sargus voted against a bill to permit creation of university branch districts (passed 20-11), but did not vote on a measure to equalize personal property valuation at 50 per cent (passed 25-9).

Sargus voted in favor of a bill which would permit professional persons to form firms for tax relief (passed 24-12) while Blake was opposed.

Blake also opposed a measure to prohibit solicitation of legal business (passed 20-12) which Sargus backed.

24th Buckeye Boys State To Elect Governor Today

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Two Youngstown boys will oppose each other for the governorship of the 24th Buckeye Boys State.

They are Dennis Gillespie, a student at Youngstown Ursuline High School, and Neil W. Brayton of Liberty High School.

The Nationalist Party nominated Gillespie and the Federalists picked Brayton as their choice for governor of the week-long school in self-government sponsored by the Ohio American Legion.

Other selections by both parties will be made today, along with final approval of party platforms.

Political rallies are on tap tonight, with elections scheduled for Sunday.

William Vincent of New Albany heads a resolution committee which is drafting the Federalist platform. Wilhelm Gabber, 17, of Canton, is charman of the Nationalists' resolutions committee.

(Gabber lives at 110 Belden Ave., S.E.)

Temporary chairmen of the two parties are Charles Weidner of Columbus for the Federalists, and Randolph Bowers of Springfield for the Nationalists. The party secretaries are Federalist Mike Oxley of Findlay and Nationalist John Loo of Toledo.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dallas Long, University of Southern California shot put specialist, bettered his own national collegiate record with a performance of 64 feet 7¾ inches Friday night.

Long, competing in the Southern Pacific AAU meet at Occidental College, got off this series of puts: 63-8¾, 62-0, 64-7¾, 61-6¾, 64-4, and 64-4½.

On hand to watch was Bill Nieder, now retired, the only man in track and field history who has tossed the shot farther than Long's latest mark. Nieder's world record is 65-10 and he has three other performances topping Long's.

Long's previous national collegiate standard was 64-6½, set in 1960.

Trustees O.K. Street Work

"Chip" jobs — oil emulsion and slag — will be applied on LaCroft Ave., 1st Ave., 2nd Ave. and Homestead Ave.

The residents will pay for the emulsion while the township will purchase the slag and do the work.

The trustees granted 30-day sick leave to Lawrence Twyford, township police constable. The Board of Elections asked for an early filing of any tax levies to appear on the November ballot.

A notice was received from the state informing the trustees all elected employes of the township, city and county are covered by workmen's compensation in case they are injured while working.

A meeting will be held Wednesday morning with a representative of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. to discuss coverage on all township buildings and equipment. The insurance program is being revised.

Next meeting is June 23.

Jobless Claims Show Slight Rise For Past Week

A slight increase in claims for unemployment compensation this week in the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Employment Service was reported by Harry L. Dinsmore, manager.

A total of 941 claims for jobless benefits were processed this week, compared to 936 last week, Dinsmore said.

The claims included 758 regular claims and 203 under the federal extension program. The regular filings included 93 new claims and 645 continued while 15 new claims were filed under the extension and 188 were continued.

Meanwhile, Dinsmore said the office has abandoned its Thursday night hours because "it was not worthwhile." Too few people took advantage of the night hours, Dinsmore explained.

Meanwhile, he announced the formation of an employment service advisory council to offer suggestions on how the office can better serve the community.

Ohioan's Murder Trial In Recess

Testimony Friday was highlighted by the statement of a doctor that Ashbrook, 38, a member of a prominent Ohio family, admitted choking his wife to death.

Dr. Jack Hirsch said the admission came while he was conducting tests on Ashbrook after his arrest last Christmas Day.

Dist. Atty. John Mendoza's plan to introduce another alleged confession—this one given to police—was held up until next week.

Mendoza and defense attorneys argued for more than an hour over introduction of various items of evidence, including blood taken from the dead woman, the former Betty Jane Puffer.

Special Aid Due 5 Ohio Depressed Areas

Stickler, Cincinnati attorney accused of violating Ohio security laws, for a continuance of his trial which is scheduled to begin June 15. The attorney for Stickler, central figure in a $3.5 million fraud case, also asked Judge Weber to order the county prosecutor to provide particulars about Stickler's alleged offenses and to seek the return of papers seized March 9 by the federal referee in bankruptcy.

A rundown of earlier statements on what the Republican leadership hoped to accomplish during the 1961 session shows about two score bills — not counting the appropriations measures — still to be processed.

More Work for Senate

An interesting aspect of this cursory bit of research is that the Senate has more work cut out for it in the waning weeks than the House does. Of 21 bills on the list, 15 are pending in the upper chamber as of this moment, the bulk of them still in committee.

That probably explains why the Senate has been convening in the afternoon on Thursdays to permit longer morning hearings before weekend recesses. It also explains why Senate committee schedules are heavier than House ones and why the Senate plans to stay over until Friday this week.

Another side note of the sampling is that all the 15 bills pending in the Senate have been acted on by the House.

Three To Go

Substituting specifics for statistics, only three of the total 21 have yet to pass both houses:

THE INCREASE in employers' contributions to the unemployment compensation fund, which will be on the House floor Monday.

THE BILL to tighten up lobbying restrictions, which was scheduled for House action Thursday but was put off to Monday at Speaker Roger Cloud's request.

THE SCHOOL SUBSIDY bill, which has been held up to see how much money can be skimmed out of the administration's general appropriations proposal.

Since even hallowed hopes can fall by the wayside in the rush to close up shop, it is safe to say that not all the 21 will find their way into the Ohio law books.

Conspiracy Bill Waits

This appears to be the case with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's criminal conspiracy bill, which won the backing of House leaders but has been resting unnoticed in the Senate Judiciary Committee since early April. That, incidentally, is where a similar measure died in the 1959 session.

The fate of a couple of other pet administration proposals is nip and tuck with time and the legislative tide.

The effort to tighten up controls on conflicts of interest among government officials went from the House to the Senate about the middle of April but is just getting around to having its first hearing there this week.

And the lobbying bill, changed considerably from its original form and undergoing further study by Cloud this weekend, will have to hurry along — if it wins the House's okay Monday.

May End Tax Stamps

On the other hand, rumor has it that the DiSalle campaign to abolish sales tax stamps will succeed. Revised and backed by the GOP leaders in the House, the bill was sent to the Senate just after the Memorial Day recess and rushed into committee hearings last week.

Any discussion of marked-for-special-handling bills eventually must get around to the proposal to create a 24th congressional district in the southwestern part of the state.

Fraught as it is with political considerations, its fate poses the $64 question of the remaining days of the session.

The cynics predicted early in the game it never would get out of the House subcommittee to which it was assigned with several other proposals. But it did.

The Box Score

Then they said it never would get out of the parent committee. It did.

They they said it never would reach the House floor. It did—and passed.

Will it get past the Senate and then be adorned with the governor's signature?

The skeptics still say it won't. They contend the Republicans feel they would have the advantage in an at-large race, which will be the result if no district materializes, and that State Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Cincinnati, wants a statewide race in preparation for a try for U.S. senator later on.

Others argue the Republicans would have as good a chance to win the 24th seat in the new district of Clearmont, Warren and Butler counties and that Taft can safely go for Congress in his home 1st District since U.S. Rep. Gordon H. Scherer plans to retire after his current term.

What About DiSalle?

These people also argue that DiSalle would go along with the new district because it would avert an at-large contest and the Democrats would have a 50-50 chance of winning in the new district.

So what will happen in the Senate?

Item: The redistricting bill is scheduled for a hearing this week.

A bit of "interservice" rivalry has developed between the chairmen of the House and Senate Judiciary committees, which traditionally bear the heaviest burden of legislative work.

One manifestation of the small-scale feud is the disappointment of Rep. Edmund G. James, R-Noble, head of the House group, over the failure of Sen. Fred Hoffman, R-Cincinnati, his Senate counterpart, to push the bill to outlaw conspiracies to violate gambling and vice laws.

Despite its initiation by the Democratic governor, Republican James took personal charge of the bill when it came to his committee and fostered bipartisan support for its passage by the House.

Peeved on Hearings

James also was peeved when Hoffman scheduled hearings on three antigambling bills one at a time instead of in a package, which is the way the House group handled them.

The three proposals—aimed at cracking down on commercialized numbers, bookmaking and sports pools rackets—were endorsed strongly by the office of Democratic Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy.

Said James:

"Despite the political considerations that might enter into these things, I believe we have a responsibility to the people of Ohio to support whatever legislation would benefit them.

"All these bills (conspiracy and antigambling) are important if we are going to drive out and keep out sinister operators of commercialized vice. I think they are good bills and that's why I put so much time on them."

Portland Police Seek Identity To Body Of Woman

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police today sought clues to the identity of a young woman, pieces of whose body were found in three different places in southeast Portland Thursday morning.

They questioned the owner of a blood-stained automobile but said he was cleared after a lie-detector test. The car was parked in the neighborhood where the body sections were discovered.

Police with hunting dogs covered the area in an unsuccessful search for the rest of the body. Sewer trunk lines also were probed without result.

The body pieces found were feet, a hand and parts of an arm and a thigh.

Prints of a thumb and three fingers were obtained but Charles Hamilton, supervisor of the police identification bureau, said these would have to be checked manually against more than 150,000 local cards.

Byron H. Shields, chief of detectives, said time of death could not be established.

Fund Eyed For Statue Of Liberty In Israel

NEW YORK (AP)—A $2 million nation-wide campaign is under way to build a statue of liberty in Israel.

Co-chairmen of the national sponsors committee, it was announced Friday, are U.S. Senators Jacob K. Javits, R-NY; Philip A. Hart, D-Mich, and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo.

The statue is to be a gift from the American people, as our own Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was a gift from the people of France.

Construction Worker Is Killed By Flames

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joseph Lindsey, a Licking County construction worker, was killed Friday by flames that spurted out of a partially completed building wrecked by a gas line explosion.

Lindsey, about 50, of Heath was helping to install a high pressure gas line around the University City Shopping Center, being built on the city's north side. Officials said a connection on the line broke and let gas escape. Then something ignited it.

The victim suffered third-degree burns over 60 per cent of his body, firemen said.

Loss was not determined to the one-story concrete building. But firemen said two trucks were damaged to the extent of $1,800.

Bettis Explains Issue

County Representatives Back Bill Aiding Villages

State Reps. Clarence Wetzel and J. Warren Bettis voted together on a bill approved by the Ohio House this week which would limit state power over villages in water pollution control.

The measure, passed 88-33, would put upon the Water Pollution Control Board the burden of proving that a particular village is polluting the waters of the state by discharge of sewage or industrial waste.

Rep. Bettis said today the proposal would be better than the present practice of "arbitrarily ordering villages to put in vast and expensive sewage systems."

"Many villages such as the one I live in would be financially bankrupt and taxpayers burdened with a heavy debt for many years if forced to install an unneeded system.

"For example in Salineville, which has a tax valuation of some $900,000, the control board is insisting on installation of a plant costing some $600,000. The cost plus interest alone would run in excess of the total valuation," Bettis declared.

"This seems to me to be completely unfair when the village has an adequate sewage disposal system, and the waters that lead away from the village do not and cannot pollute the Ohio River, some 15 miles away."

"After all, the system as required is nothing more than a primary treatment or a 'super septic tank.' This bill would allow the local health department to supervise and control the sewage problems of the various local subdivisions, in accordance with my thinking of keeping controls at the local level in the operation of home rule."

Bettis and Wetzel also voted in favor of bills to permit local objection to issuance of liquor permits (passed 85-24), to permit deduction of beer and wine taxes from the U. S. income tax (passed 90-19) and to exempt air and water pollution facilities from taxes (passed 71-59).

They voted against a bill to reduce minimum space limit in nursing homes (defeated 42-85) and to require counties to approve city withdrawal from townships (passed 80-36).

State Sens. Arthur Black and Edmund Sargus voted against a bill to permit creation of university branch districts (passed 20-11), but did not vote on a measure to equalize personal property valuation at 50 per cent (passed 25-9).

Sargus voted in favor of a bill which would permit professional persons to form firms for tax relief (passed 24-12) while Blake was opposed.

Blake also opposed a measure to prohibit solicitation of legal business (passed 20-12) which Sargus backed.

24th Buckeye Boys State To Elect Governor Today

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Two Youngstown boys will oppose each other for the governorship of the 24th Buckeye Boys State.

The Nationalist Party nominated Gillespie and the Federalists picked Brayton as their choice for governor of the week-long school in self-government sponsored by the Ohio American Legion.

Other selections by both parties will be made today, along with final approval of party platforms.

Political rallies are on tap tonight, with elections scheduled for Sunday.

William Vincent of New Albany heads a resolution committee which is drafting the Federalist platform. Wilhelm Gabber, 17, of Canton, is charman of the Nationalists' resolutions committee.

Temporary chairmen of the two parties are Charles Weidner of Columbus for the Federalists, and Randolph Bowers of Springfield for the Nationalists. The party secretaries are Federalist Mike Oxley of Findlay and Nationalist John Loo of Toledo.

Fined were Lewis R. Kring, 17, of Salem, $25 for speeding, and Norman Lee Wallace, 17, of Homeworth, $10, and Karen E. Shaw, 16, of Lisbon R.D. 4, $5, for failing to stop within the assured clear distance. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

ADVERTISING

To establish an advertising budget for your business is not only elementary but a MUST if you intend to keep your customers informed of the things you have for sale or the services you have to offer. But how you spend the money in your advertising budget is not elementary—it requires a basic knowledge of your market, its people, their habits and how you can best reach them to bring the greatest return for your advertising dollar.

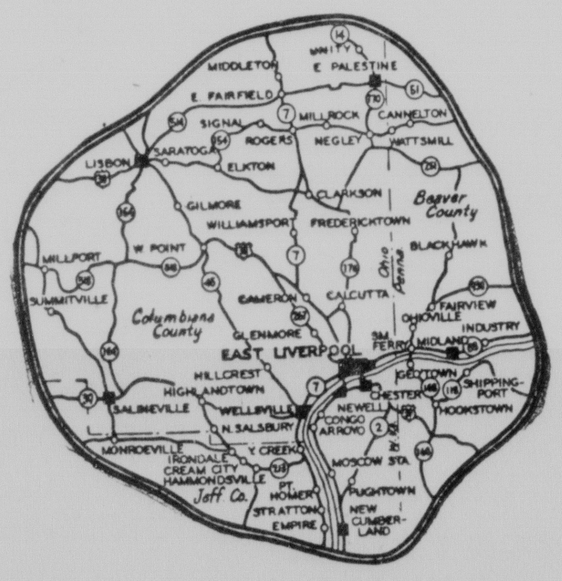

One of the things you should remember about the Tri-State market is that it is not made up of a transient population —our people do not move about much. Consequently, your task is different than in a metropolitan area where people are moving in and out, making it difficult to keep them acquainted with your business.

In this district you have the advantage of population stability. Your customers don't have to refer to a book or an index to find you. Consequently, you can devote your advertising messages to telling them what you have to offer today and being able to change your message from week to week and from season to season to keep the trade fully informed about your business.

Static advertising is static action. It is much more profitable to advertise in such a way that you can reach your customers and not have to depend on them "hunting" for you.

Tires, Wheels Taken From 2 Local Autos

Two motorists reported the theft of tires and wheels to police Friday.

George Fowler, 801 W. 9th St., said the right front wheel and nearly new 7.10-x-15 tire were taken from his car while it was parked in his rented garage on Lisbon St. between last Saturday and yesterday afternoon.

Donald Jones, 941 Montgomery Ave., said a thief broke a vent window on his station wagon and then stole a 6.70-x-15 tire and wheel and an auto jack from the vehicle parked in front of his home.

Mother Ursulina Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Rev. Mother Mary Ursulina (Greider), 72, mother general of the Franciscan sisters of the Sacred Heart from 1948 to 1957, died Friday in a hospital. She was a native of Troy Grove, Ill.

6 Forfeit, 3 Drivers Fined

LISBON — Three motorists were fined Friday by County Judge James L. MacDonald, six others forfeited and one was given a suspended fine. Two cases were dismissed for want of prosecution.

James R. Brenneman, 27, of 2018 Michigan Ave., East Liverpool, was fined $10 and costs for passing without the assured clear distance; Kenneth E. Strabley, 32, of Salineville, $5 and costs for reckless operation, and James Eversole, 45, of Lisbon R. D., $5 and costs for speeding.

Mathew J. Vitartas, 39, of Canton, forfeited $20 bond for crossing the yellow line in hazardous zone, and Thomas E. Evans Jr., 21, of Toronto, Henry G. Griffith, 58, of Mogadore, Edwin S. Decker, 32, of Barberton, Paul E. Hazen, 41, of Alliance and Jules J. Rank, 46, of Akron, $15 each for speeding.

Robert L. Corder, 25, of Warren received a suspended $10 fine for operating a motor vehicle without valid operator's license. He had an expired Ohio license but a valid West Virginia license. He stays with his parents in West Virginia but works in Warren.

Edward Marquis, 25, of Hanoverton and Fred Greene, 24, of Kensington were freed after Eugene Minor, owner of Miner's Tavern at Kensington, failed to appear to press charges that they broke a window in the tavern.

Highway Blocke As Rigs Crash; 1 Driver Killed

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Rainswept U.S. 35-50 east of Chillicothe was blocked for three hours today as highway patrolmen and wrecker crews sought to rescue two men pinned in the cabs of their huge tractor-trailer trucks.

One of the drivers was pronounced dead after being lifted from the cab. The patrol was unable to establish his identity immediately, but said he apparently was from the Jackson, Ohio, area. His rig was loaded with steel.

The other driver was identified as George Robinette, 36, of Wellston in Jackson County. After he was freed from the wreckage of his vehicle, he was rushed to a hospital in Chillicothe.

The patrol said the accident happened this way:

A car containing five teenagers halted at the east end of the Scioto River Bridge to make a turn to another road. The steel-laden semi glanced off the automobile and went into the left lane, where it collided with the truck driven by Robinette. The teenagers were treated at a hospital.

Another car later bumped into the wreckage of Robinette's truck, but damage was said to be minor to the car.

Pleads Innocent

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dan Gooding, chief jailer for former sheriff Russell M. Bird, pleaded innocent Friday to an indictment charging him with embezzling $9,089 in fines and costs that were to be paid to mayors' courts. Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey released Gooding on $1,500 bond. Gooding said he neither took nor knew what happened to the funds which the indictment charges he took between July 3, 1958 and Dec. 31, 1960. The money had been paid by persons representing prisoners who were jailed for failure to pay fines and costs.

U.S. Popularity With Asia-Africa Nations Boosted

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—U.S. popularity with Asian-African nations—particularly the newly independent African countries—got another boost today as the result of the latest U.N. Security Council action on Angola.

But relations with Portugal, an ally of the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was subject to more strain.

This was the consensus of diplomats in the wake of the council's call Friday night upon Portugal to end harsh measures against the native population in its big West African territory.

The vote on an Asian-African resolution containing the harshest U.N. criticism to date of Portugal on the Angola situation was approved 9-0 with two abstentions —Britain and France.

This was the third time the Kennedy administration found itself on the opposite side of the fence from its Western allies on Angola, and voting with the Soviet Union.

Ex-Convict Kills Deputy Sheriff

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (AP)—A deputy sheriff was shot to death on a lonely stretch of road along the central California countryside Friday.

Thirty minutes later, a posse of 20 policemen found William Jefferson Ford, 34, an ex-convict, with the slain deputy's service revolver tucked under his belt.

Sheriff Paul Merrick said witnesses reported that Ford killed Deputy Harvey Stahl, 40, while Ford's terrified wife and three of his four children watched, undecided whether to try and stop Ford or to run for their own lives.

Ford was booked on suspicion of murder.

Merrick said Ford, an unemployed ranch worker, forced his wife and youngsters to accompany him in a commandeered car after he wounded a neighbor who tried to protect them.

Sen. Young Raps Medical Unit On Social Security

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio says the American Medical Association is a "tight little reactionary organization which has been opposed to Social Security since its inception."

Young made the statement Friday night in a speech to the Men's Democratic Club banquet at the Clark County Fairgrounds.

He was speaking about the administration's plan for medical-surgical care for elderly people within the Social Security system when he lashed out at the AMA.

The senator predicted that the program will be passed at this session of Congress despite opposition from the AMA.

Earlier, in a stop at Columbus, Young told newsmen:

He is opposed to "international blackmail" such as Fidel Castro's proposal to trade tractors for Cuban invasion prisoners. He doesn't mind private citizens trying to conduct the trade but the government should stay out of it.

U.S. Military Research Units Seek Arms Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. military research teams are spreading out through the terrorist-infested regions in Southeast Asia and the Middle East to learn first hand what kind of weapons are needed to combat Communist guerrillas.

The survey could drastically change the types of equipment the United States is supplying its friends who are fighting the shadowy bands in the jungles and hill country unsuited to conventional weapons.

The research and development teams will talk with native anti-guerrilla fighters to learn from their experiences. They will also confer with members of U. S. military advisory groups already on the scene.

2 Hurt In Crash; Cars Demolished

A motorist and a passenger received minor injuries in a crash that demolished their cars Friday about 11:30 p. m. at the intersection of Routes 168 and 278 at Fairview in Ohio Township, according to Bernard Zlatovich, constable.

Jack N. Falk, 26, of Negley R. D. 1, thrown to the pavement, required six stitches for a cut over his left eye, and suffered cuts and bruises of the head and a laceration of his left knee.

Paul Walter of Industry R. D. 1, Meadowbrook Estates, driver of the other car, was shaken and his wife was treated at Crucible Emergency Hospital at Midland for abrasions of the forehead, arms and knee. Their two children were unhurt.

Zlatovich said that Falk, northbound on Route 168, did not see the stop sign at the intersection due to fog and rain and could not stop in time. He proceeded onto Route 278 and the left side of his car hit the front end of the other auto, traveling in the opposite direction and attempting a left turn onto Route 168. Falk swerved and tried to avoid the collision, the constable said. There was about $1,500 damage to both autos.

Injured In Crash

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—Ervin Sir-Louis, 29, of Akron, suffered cuts on the face and head when his small plane nosed over in a farm field after being forced down in a storm Friday night. The Ohio Highway Patrol said the single-engine Piper Cub struck a fence while taxiing on a farm 3½ miles southeast of Mount Vernon. Sir-Louis was taken to Mercy hospital here. His wife, Phyliss, 25, and daughter, Cindy, 1¼, were not hurt, the patrol said.

U.S. Popularity With Asia-Africa Nations Boosted

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—U.S. popularity with Asian-African nations—particularly the newly independent African countries—got another boost today as the result of the latest U.N. Security Council action on Angola.

But relations with Portugal, an ally of the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was subject to more strain.

This was the consensus of diplomats in the wake of the council's call Friday night upon Portugal to end harsh measures against the native population in its big West African territory.

The vote on an Asian-African resolution containing the harshest U.N. criticism to date of Portugal on the Angola situation was approved 9-0 with two abstentions —Britain and France.

This was the third time the Kennedy administration found itself on the opposite side of the fence from its Western allies on Angola, and voting with the Soviet Union.

Highway Blocke As Rigs Crash; 1 Driver Killed

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Rainswept U.S. 35-50 east of Chillicothe was blocked for three hours today as highway patrolmen and wrecker crews sought to rescue two men pinned in the cabs of their huge tractor-trailer trucks.

One of the drivers was pronounced dead after being lifted from the cab. The patrol was unable to establish his identity immediately, but said he apparently was from the Jackson, Ohio, area. His rig was loaded with steel.

The other driver was identified as George Robinette, 36, of Wellston in Jackson County. After he was freed from the wreckage of his vehicle, he was rushed to a hospital in Chillicothe.

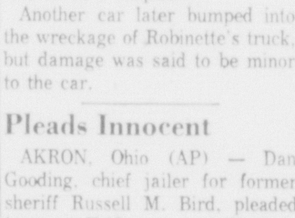

The patrol said the accident happened this way:

A car containing five teenagers halted at the east end of the Scioto River Bridge to make a turn to another road. The steel-laden semi glanced off the automobile and went into the left lane, where it collided with the truck driven by Robinette. The teenagers were treated at a hospital.

Another car later bumped into the wreckage of Robinette's truck, but damage was said to be minor to the car.

Pleads Innocent

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dan Gooding, chief jailer for former sheriff Russell M. Bird, pleaded innocent Friday to an indictment charging him with embezzling $9,089 in fines and costs that were to be paid to mayors' courts. Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey released Gooding on $1,500 bond. Gooding said he neither took nor knew what happened to the funds which the indictment charges he took between July 3, 1958 and Dec. 31, 1960. The money had been paid by persons representing prisoners who were jailed for failure to pay fines and costs.

Trials are expected to start Monday in Beaver County Court for four Midlanders, according to a list of 27 cases reported by the district attorney's office at Beaver.

Frank Dapollonia, Rocco Dapollonia and James Rivetti face charges of aggravated assault and battery. They were indicted by the recent Grand Jury. Charges were filed by Anthony Tonti of Midland.

Sen. Young Raps Medical Unit On Social Security

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio says the American Medical Association is a "tight little reactionary organization which has been opposed to Social Security since its inception."

Young made the statement Friday night in a speech to the Men's Democratic Club banquet at the Clark County Fairgrounds.

He was speaking about the administration's plan for medical-surgical care for elderly people within the Social Security system when he lashed out at the AMA.

The senator predicted that the program will be passed at this session of Congress despite opposition from the AMA.

Earlier, in a stop at Columbus, Young told newsmen:

He is opposed to "international blackmail" such as Fidel Castro's proposal to trade tractors for Cuban invasion prisoners. He doesn't mind private citizens trying to conduct the trade but the government should stay out of it.

U.S. Military Research Units Seek Arms Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. military research teams are spreading out through the terrorist-infested regions in Southeast Asia and the Middle East to learn first hand what kind of weapons are needed to combat Communist guerrillas.

The survey could drastically change the types of equipment the United States is supplying its friends who are fighting the shadowy bands in the jungles and hill country unsuited to conventional weapons.

The research and development teams will talk with native anti-guerrilla fighters to learn from their experiences. They will also confer with members of U. S. military advisory groups already on the scene.

2 Hurt In Crash; Cars Demolished

A motorist and a passenger received minor injuries in a crash that demolished their cars Friday about 11:30 p. m. at the intersection of Routes 168 and 278 at Fairview in Ohio Township, according to Bernard Zlatovich, constable.

Jack N. Falk, 26, of Negley R. D. 1, thrown to the pavement, required six stitches for a cut over his left eye, and suffered cuts and bruises of the head and a laceration of his left knee.

Paul Walter of Industry R. D. 1, Meadowbrook Estates, driver of the other car, was shaken and his wife was treated at Crucible Emergency Hospital at Midland for abrasions of the forehead, arms and knee. Their two children were unhurt.

Zlatovich said that Falk, northbound on Route 168, did not see the stop sign at the intersection due to fog and rain and could not stop in time. He proceeded onto Route 278 and the left side of his car hit the front end of the other auto, traveling in the opposite direction and attempting a left turn onto Route 168. Falk swerved and tried to avoid the collision, the constable said. There was about $1,500 damage to both autos.

Injured In Crash

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—Ervin Sir-Louis, 29, of Akron, suffered cuts on the face and head when his small plane nosed over in a farm field after being forced down in a storm Friday night. The Ohio Highway Patrol said the single-engine Piper Cub struck a fence while taxiing on a farm 3½ miles southeast of Mount Vernon. Sir-Louis was taken to Mercy hospital here. His wife, Phyliss, 25, and daughter, Cindy, 1¼, were not hurt, the patrol said.

Study Of New Site To Delay Sewage Plan

SALINEVILLE — Study of another site for the proposed sewage disposal system and an engineering survey in connection with the new location are expected to further delay plans for the project, Mayor Kenneth Leishman announced today.

Mayor Leishman, who conferred with the Water Pollution Control Board at Columbus this week, said the board is to consider the second site for the proposed plant.

He said the board rejected a previously selected location southeast of Hayti, and is now to study another site of about four acres nearer the community.

The mayor said he would rather not pinpoint the present site while it is being considered and before legal arrangements are completed.

The Madison Engineering Co. of Mansfild, which conducted a basic survey in connection with the proposed facility in line with requirements of the Water Pollution Control Board, is to make a survey of the new location, he said.

The proposed plant would cost some $500,000, but these latest delays will push the project schedule back "a couple of years," the mayor said.

The mayor indicated that the village authorities will continue to make plans for the project despite House passage of a bill which would cut the Control board's power to enforce construction.

He said there are no immediate plans for seeking a bond issue for the facility, but engineering work and selection of a site will be continued, and the administration will work for eventual construction.

Mayor Leishman said he and State Rep. Warren Bettis conferred Wednesday with the pollution control authorities. The mayor returned Thursday and plans to make a report of his conferences to Council at a meeting Monday night at 7:30.

Prizes Awarded To Parade Units

SALINEVILLE — Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio and Arthur Brandonisio, parade marshal, estimated 2,800 lined the streets for the annual firemen's parade Friday night.

Rain has plagued the firemen's homecoming celebration almost nightly since it opened Monday. There were 45 units in the line of march.

Some $175 in prizes were distributed and the judges, Rep. Warren Bettis, Judge Louis Tobin, Frank P. Solak and Orville Madision, made the following awards:

Best band, $25, Beaver Local High School; best marching unit, $15, VFW Post 9285 of Wellsville: best majorette unit, $10, United Local School Twirlers; best-appearing pumper, $15, Minerva fire department; and $10 awards for best emergency car, St. Clairsville; emergency truck, Weirton; oldest truck, 1928, New Springfield; fire department ambulance, Burgettstown, and best renovated old car, Bergholz.

The McDonald (Pa.) department won the $10 prize for coming the longest distance, 72 miles. The judges donated a prize to Salineville High School band although it was not in the competition.

The fair will conclude tonight with amusement rides and games.

Transit Firm To Hike Fares Nickel In Fall

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shaker Heights Rapid Transit fares will be increased a nickel to 30 cents in October, according to Paul K. Jones, the suburb's transportation director.

Jones said Friday the five-cent increase will result when the wage pattern for Shaker Heights trainmen follows that of the transit union and the Cleveland Transit System. The Cleveland Transit System announced earlier this week it will raise fares to 30 cents effective midnight July 1. Of that increase, county Republican chairman A. L. de Maioribus say it "has sounded the death knell" of municipal transportation in Cleveland. "The only answer is an elective transit board," deMaioribus said.

Missing National Security Agency Clerk Being Hunted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police today sought a clerk from the hush-hush National Security Agency who has been missing since Monday.

The FBI declined comment on whether it was taking part in the search for William Hyter Covington, 28, conducted by Maryland state police at the request of NSA.

Defense Department officials said Covington had no access to secret material.

NSA—so secret its employes are not supposed to tell their friends where they work—engages in communications intelligence. Located at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., it maintains around - the - clock monitoring of all signals and messages on the air waves, including those in code form.

Officials said Covington had been on sick leave for two months following an operation.

He returned to work May 31, but after working two days asked to be off June 2 because he said he needed additional medical treatment.

Last Monday and Tuesday Covington telephoned that he was sick. Wednesday, his wife called the security agency to learn where he was and was told he hadn't been in. The Covingtons live at Laurel, Md.

NSA listed Covington as missing Thursday. He was reported seen at the race track at Charles Town, W. Va., and also in Arlington, Va.

Last summer, two NSA code clerks fled to Moscow and have since been used by the Soviet Union for propaganda blasts at the United States. Both Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin are reported to have gone to work as mathematicians for the Soviet government.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Do you have any special tips on the effective stirring of paint?

A. When you have a small can of paint to mix, first stir it to loosen the pigment from the bottom of the can, then use a hand egg-beater to do a good job of paint - mixing. And you'd better keep this particular egg-beater as a permanent part of your workshop, rather than return it to the kitchen.

Q. How can I keep ham for a longer time, without danger of mold?

A. Pour some melted paraffin over the cut end of the ham, and it will keep for an indefinite time.

Installation Set By Lions

Jack Kelly is in charge of tickets for the event which will begin with a dinner at 6:30.

A discussion on swimming pools and treatment was presented by Darrell Berkoben of the Opalco Laboratory in McKeesport.

Berkoben discussed the three types of pools — fill and draw, flow through and recirculation — and the chemicals and methods of treating water. He demonstrated tests for alkaline and chlorine content of the water.

Mrs. Ralph Clark and Mrs. Carl Ludwig will discuss operation of the proposed Eye Bank and the Lions' role at the meeting Friday noon at the hotel. Sight saving is the club's principal charity.

Hancock Board Pares Plans For Summer School

Due to a lack of interest in the northern part of the county, tentative plans to operate a summer school center in either Chester or Newell have been dropped by the Hancock County Board of Education.

Supt. Robert H. Hall said the only part of the summer program in operation will be two English classes at Weir High School, and remedial courses for elementary pupils at Dunbar School in Weirton.

The board earlier approved plans for a nine-week term for secondary students for basic subjects of English, science, mathematics, social studies and typing, with centers in Weirton and either Chester or Newell.

There were no registrants for the summer classes at any of the high schools in Chester, Newell or New Cumberland, forcing the board to cancel part of its proposed program.

Forty registered for the two English classes that will open Monday at Weir High School. About eight will be enrolled in the remedial classes at Dunbar.

Tuition for the nine-week course for secondary students is $45, or $1 a day, and $30 for the elementary pupils.

Supt. Hall commented that he believes the lack of interest in the northern part of the county was attributed to the financial aspects of the program.

Father Sues Doctor In Boy's Loss Of Eye

LISBON — Robert L. Stroup of Lake Milton filed suit for $50,000 Friday in Common Pleas Court, blaming a Salem doctor for loss of the right eye of the plaintiff's son.

Stroup accuses Dr. V. C. Hart of negligence, alleging that on Aug. 13, 1959, the doctor diagnosed an eye condition in the son, Ronald, then 9, as a cut and prescribed medication.

Three days later, the eye was in such condition it had to be removed because a splinter of steel the doctor had not located on the first visit had caused infection, the petition alleges.

Water Safety Program Will Begin On Monday

Registrations for the second three-week course, beginning July 3, will be accepted until July 1.

The annual program is coordinated by the Water Safety committee, headed by Mrs. R. J. Schiff, and includes classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced swimming as well as junior and senior lifesaving.

"Simple, sensible precautions will go a long way to prevent needless drownings that happen each year," Mrs. Schiff said today in emphasizing the importance of the water safety program.

"After nine months of non-swimming, one's physical condition and endurance will not be up to last September's standards", she pointed out.

The following safety hints should be followed by all swimmers, whether they are in the Red Cross program or not, she said:

1. — Take it easy at first.

2. — If you can already swim a little, learn to swim better.

3. — Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the arae is safe for swimming.

4. — Know the swimming area. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and that there are no submerged rocks or other obstructions.

5. — Respect the water and know your limitations. Don't go beyond safe limits or your ability.

6. — Don't swim right after eating, when overheated or overtired.

7. — Stay calm in case of trouble. Assume a face - up, floating position, keeping your hands under the water, and slowly moving your hands and feet.

8. — Always keep safety equipment in your boat or canoe. Non-swimmers should wear life vests when riding in small craft.

Any questions concerning eligibility requirements for the July 3 session should be referred to the Red Cross office in the Mary Patterson Home, Mrs. Schiff said.

LISBON — A resolution to resubmit the $350,000 bond issue on the fall ballot will be up for action by the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Supt. Russell Armitage said the board will also discuss pupil insurance, retirements and hiring of new employes, school bus repairs and proposed modification of the home economics room at the high school.

Study Of New Site To Delay Sewage Plan

SALINEVILLE — Study of another site for the proposed sewage disposal system and an engineering survey in connection with the new location are expected to further delay plans for the project, Mayor Kenneth Leishman announced today.

Mayor Leishman, who conferred with the Water Pollution Control Board at Columbus this week, said the board is to consider the second site for the proposed plant.

He said the board rejected a previously selected location southeast of Hayti, and is now to study another site of about four acres nearer the community.

The mayor said he would rather not pinpoint the present site while it is being considered and before legal arrangements are completed.

The Madison Engineering Co. of Mansfild, which conducted a basic survey in connection with the proposed facility in line with requirements of the Water Pollution Control Board, is to make a survey of the new location, he said.

The proposed plant would cost some $500,000, but these latest delays will push the project schedule back "a couple of years," the mayor said.

The mayor indicated that the village authorities will continue to make plans for the project despite House passage of a bill which would cut the Control board's power to enforce construction.

He said there are no immediate plans for seeking a bond issue for the facility, but engineering work and selection of a site will be continued, and the administration will work for eventual construction.

Mayor Leishman said he and State Rep. Warren Bettis conferred Wednesday with the pollution control authorities. The mayor returned Thursday and plans to make a report of his conferences to Council at a meeting Monday night at 7:30.

Prizes Awarded To Parade Units

Rain has plagued the firemen's homecoming celebration almost nightly since it opened Monday. There were 45 units in the line of march.

Some $175 in prizes were distributed and the judges, Rep. Warren Bettis, Judge Louis Tobin, Frank P. Solak and Orville Madision, made the following awards:

Best band, $25, Beaver Local High School; best marching unit, $15, VFW Post 9285 of Wellsville; best majorette unit, $10, United Local School Twirlers; best-appearing pumper, $15, Minerva fire department; and $10 awards for best emergency car, St. Clairsville; emergency truck, Weirton; oldest truck, 1928, New Springfield; fire department ambulance, Burgettstown, and best renovated old car, Bergholz.

The McDonald (Pa.) department won the $10 prize for coming the longest distance, 72 miles. The judges donated a prize to Salineville High School band although it was not in the competition.

Transit Firm To Hike Fares Nickel In Fall

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shaker Heights Rapid Transit fares will be increased a nickel to 30 cents in October, according to Paul K. Jones, the suburb's transportation director.

Jones said Friday the five-cent increase will result when the wage pattern for Shaker Heights trainmen follows that of the transit union and the Cleveland Transit System. The Cleveland Transit System announced earlier this week it will raise fares to 30 cents effective midnight July 1. Of that increase, county Republican chairman A. L. de Maioribus say it "has sounded the death knell" of municipal transportation in Cleveland. "The only answer is an elective transit board," deMaioribus said.

Missing National Security Agency Clerk Being Hunted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police today sought a clerk from the hush-hush National Security Agency who has been missing since Monday.

Defense Department officials said Covington had no access to secret material.

NSA—so secret its employes are not supposed to tell their friends where they work—engages in communications intelligence. Located at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., it maintains around - the - clock monitoring of all signals and messages on the air waves, including those in code form.

Officials said Covington had been on sick leave for two months following an operation.

He returned to work May 31, but after working two days asked to be off June 2 because he said he needed additional medical treatment.

Last Monday and Tuesday Covington telephoned that he was sick. Wednesday, his wife called the security agency to learn where he was and was told he hadn't been in. The Covingtons live at Laurel, Md.

NSA listed Covington as missing Thursday. He was reported seen at the race track at Charles Town, W. Va., and also in Arlington, Va.

Last summer, two NSA code clerks fled to Moscow and have since been used by the Soviet Union for propaganda blasts at the United States. Both Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin are reported to have gone to work as mathematicians for the Soviet government.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Do you have any special tips on the effective stirring of paint?

A. When you have a small can of paint to mix, first stir it to loosen the pigment from the bottom of the can, then use a hand egg-beater to do a good job of paint - mixing. And you'd better keep this particular egg-beater as a permanent part of your workshop, rather than return it to the kitchen.

Q. How can I keep ham for a longer time, without danger of mold?

A. Pour some melted paraffin over the cut end of the ham, and it will keep for an indefinite time.

Council To Meet

LISBON — Council will meet Monday night at 7:30 with only routine business scheduled, according to Mayor Dean Stockman.

Installation Set By Lions

Jack Kelly is in charge of tickets for the event which will begin with a dinner at 6:30.

A discussion on swimming pools and treatment was presented by Darrell Berkoben of the Opalco Laboratory in McKeesport.

Berkoben discussed the three types of pools — fill and draw, flow through and recirculation — and the chemicals and methods of treating water. He demonstrated tests for alkaline and chlorine content of the water.

Mrs. Ralph Clark and Mrs. Carl Ludwig will discuss operation of the proposed Eye Bank and the Lions' role at the meeting Friday noon at the hotel. Sight saving is the club's principal charity.

Hancock Board Pares Plans For Summer School

Due to a lack of interest in the northern part of the county, tentative plans to operate a summer school center in either Chester or Newell have been dropped by the Hancock County Board of Education.

Supt. Robert H. Hall said the only part of the summer program in operation will be two English classes at Weir High School, and remedial courses for elementary pupils at Dunbar School in Weirton.

The board earlier approved plans for a nine-week term for secondary students for basic subjects of English, science, mathematics, social studies and typing, with centers in Weirton and either Chester or Newell.

There were no registrants for the summer classes at any of the high schools in Chester, Newell or New Cumberland, forcing the board to cancel part of its proposed program.

Forty registered for the two English classes that will open Monday at Weir High School. About eight will be enrolled in the remedial classes at Dunbar.

Tuition for the nine-week course for secondary students is $45, or $1 a day, and $30 for the elementary pupils.

Supt. Hall commented that he believes the lack of interest in the northern part of the county was attributed to the financial aspects of the program.

Father Sues Doctor In Boy's Loss Of Eye

LISBON — Robert L. Stroup of Lake Milton filed suit for $50,000 Friday in Common Pleas Court, blaming a Salem doctor for loss of the right eye of the plaintiff's son.

Stroup accuses Dr. V. C. Hart of negligence, alleging that on Aug. 13, 1959, the doctor diagnosed an eye condition in the son, Ronald, then 9, as a cut and prescribed medication.

Three days later, the eye was in such condition it had to be removed because a splinter of steel the doctor had not located on the first visit had caused infection, the petition alleges.

Plans Expansion

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Water Service Co. plans to build an addition which it says will double daily capacity at its Struthers-Poland filter plant as part of a $500,000 local expansion program.

Water Safety Program Will Begin On Monday

One hundred applications have been received for the June session of the Red Cross free water safety program which will open Monday morning at the Thompson Park swimming pool under the direction of Jack Frontone.

Registrations for the second three-week course, beginning July 3, will be accepted until July 1.

The annual program is coordinated by the Water Safety committee, headed by Mrs. R. J. Schiff, and includes classes in beginning, intermediate and advanced swimming as well as junior and senior lifesaving.

"Simple, sensible precautions will go a long way to prevent needless drownings that happen each year," Mrs. Schiff said today in emphasizing the importance of the water safety program.

"After nine months of non-swimming, one's physical condition and endurance will not be up to last September's standards", she pointed out.

The following safety hints should be followed by all swimmers, whether they are in the Red Cross program or not, she said:

1. — Take it easy at first.

2. — If you can already swim a little, learn to swim better.

3. — Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the arae is safe for swimming.

4. — Know the swimming area. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and that there are no submerged rocks or other obstructions.

5. — Respect the water and know your limitations. Don't go beyond safe limits or your ability.

6. — Don't swim right after eating, when overheated or overtired.

7. — Stay calm in case of trouble. Assume a face - up, floating position, keeping your hands under the water, and slowly moving your hands and feet.

Are These Our Most Dangerous Drivers?

Cautious and law-abiding, they travel the highways without realizing their weakness—a fatal weakness, perhaps

By LESTER DAVID

ON A SUNNY AFTERNOON not long ago, two cars were traveling at moderate speeds in opposite directions on a Pennsylvania highway. Approaching an intersection, one of the cars started to make a slow left turn in the path of the other. There was a shriek of brakes and a thunderous crash as the two vehicles collided. Result: three dead.

The cause of the accident, as entered on the police records, was: "improper left turn." But why did the driver turn so dangerously close in front of an oncoming car?

Because he was suffering from a serious vision defect he never knew he had! Poor depth perception made him unable to judge distances properly. He thought he had plenty of time and room.

The tragedy dramatizes a shocking situation that concerns every family that ever ventures onto the open roads in an automobile. In more than three-fourths of our states, persons with dangerously bad eyesight are permitted by law to drive high-powered cars along the traffic-crowded streets and highways. In a high percentage of cases, drivers are totally unaware of their defects.

During a routine government reorganization, officials were dismayed to discover that 33 veterans who were receiving pensions because they were blind also held permits to drive cars! Needless to say, the licenses were suspended after tests confirmed their afflictions.

You may well ask how this incredible situation could be permitted to happen. The answer should make every citizen sit up and take notice.

New York, along with the majority of other states, submits applicants for drivers' licenses to just one eye examination. If they can read letters on a chart at a designated distance, with or without glasses, the states never again bother them for a vision test. In the great preponderance of cases, this means for the rest of their driving lifetime.

A study of requirements for motor vehicle operators in the various states reveals that 38 of the 50 do not require a re-examination of a driver's eyesight at any time after the initial license has been issued. Eyesight, of course, may be subsequently impaired—but officials seldom know it until a partially blinded person causes a tragic accident.

HOW WIDESPREAD is the peril? Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, estimates there are several million persons now driving who can't see well enough to cope with the complexity of today's automotive traffic. He declares:

Now obviously, totally blind persons will stop driving voluntarily. The chief menace lies in those who have serious eye problems and don't know it!

They are unaware of their defects because of another major flaw in our driving licensing laws—the inadequacy of the eye tests themselves. Most states test drivers for visual acuity alone—how clearly you can see without blur. This is the eye-chart test.

But eye experts point out that just as important for safe driving as visual acuity are these factors:

Depth perception—the ability to locate objects in space properly. For instance, if you start to pass three cars and find an approaching auto bearing down before you get by, you have poor depth perception. At present, 24 states do not test for this.

Field of vision—how much you can see on each side without turning your head. People with so-called "tunnel vision" can see only what is straight ahead. They are the ones who "never saw" the car coming out of the crossing or the small child crossing the street. Thirty-eight states don't test for this.

Night vision—how well your eyes can adapt to the dark. Authorities explain that dusk blinds some drivers as much as complete darkness does others. Night blindness helps explain why fatal accidents occur three times as often at night as in the daytime. Very few states give night-vision tests.

Clearly there is urgent need for modernizing our antiquated driver-licensing laws, and at this point it is essential to answer a key question: won't more and better testing of vision result in wholesale cancellation of licenses, especially of older persons?

By no means. Medical experts point out that the vast majority of sight defects can either be corrected by modern science or the driver can compensate for them by taking special precautions. Actually, it is to every driver's benefit to have his eyes tested and to support more stringent eye tests.

As Dr. Glyndon L. Rowe stated at a meeting of the Better Vision Institute in Michigan: "Until something is done about checking the vision of drivers, reduction of auto-accident figures is virtually impossible."

With nearly 40,000 auto deaths and 1.4 million injuries racked up annually, adequate vision tests and retests for drivers will be a boon to all.

Carbon costs you money. A tiny bit extra on a vital engine part can waste a tenth of the gasoline you buy, cost you 50 cents or more every time you fill up. Why is this so?

HOW LIZ TAYLOR HAS CHANGED

Five years ago she was a "beauty in a vacuum"; tragedy has shattered that vacuum, and from it has emerged a new and vibrant person

By ELEANOR HARRIS

"EVERYTHING CHANGES," Elizabeth Taylor told me in her soft little voice a few days before winning her Oscar at the Academy Awards ceremony.

I replied, "Especially for you, everything changes."

I was thinking of the fact that I had only known her for five years—she was 24 in 1956 when I first got to know her well—yet in those five years the changes in her life have been cataclysmic. She has been divorced once, married twice, widowed once, become a mother for the third time, seriously embraced a religion (the Jewish faith), almost died from one of many illnesses, overcome world-wide criticism as a "home wrecker"—and won the Academy Award, highest acting honor the film world can bestow.

Behind all of these events she was not idle in her career: she starred in "Raintree County," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Suddenly Last Summer," "Butterfield 8," and she started "Cleopatra." What's more, the four completed pictures saw such superb acting on her part that she was nominated each time for an Academy Award. Further, with "Cleopatra's" salary of $1 million, she became the highest-paid actress in the world.

Who else can look back on five years as action-packed—and emotion-packed—as these five years of Elizabeth's?

It's natural that, with all the changes in her life, she herself has changed; much of what has happened to her in recent years occurred because of her changing attitude.

As I write this article, she is living quietly in a bungalow of the Beverly Hills Hotel in California, still a semi-invalid recuperating from her near-fatal encounter with double pneumonia in London last March. With her are her husband Eddie Fisher, her three children (sons Michael and Christopher by Michael Wilding, daughter Liza by Mike Todd), three Yorkshire terrier dogs, and one cat.

She wears a two-inch scar on her famous throat, made by the incision for a tube to help her breathe during her bout with pneumonia. She has a slight limp, too, because of thrombophlebitis in her right ankle—which is painfully swollen because of blood transfusions and antibiotic drip treatments received unceasingly for a five-day period. Extremely pale and thin—she lost 16 pounds in the hospital—as of this writing she has made only one public appearance, at the Academy Awards presentation. Otherwise, she has remained within limping distance of her bed.

"But I feel wonderful—weak but wonderful—and I'm enjoying this peaceful life," she told me. "I take a daily nap, and I usually see a few friends in the late afternoon; by 10 each night I'm asleep. On sunny days I have an hour's sun bath. I'm spending most of my time with my children, and I'm reading a book a day."

In an effort to gain strength, she is forcing herself to eat. "But all those antibiotics ruin your appetite. Food tastes like wood to me—balsa wood."

London No; California Yes

With her constantly is Eddie Fisher, who has decided that she will never again work or live in a brutally cold climate like that of London. "My husband has put his foot down," she reports. "He says we're going to stay in a warm climate—so we're planning to build a home in California."

The two read together, greet friends together, talk everything over together from the slightest problem to the greatest—as they have since their marriage on May 12, 1959. Recently, asked if either had consulted a psychoanalyst during the more tumultuous periods of their recent life, she said, laughing, "How do you spell 'psychoanalyst'? Eddie and I use Pisces instead." (Pisces is the astrological sign for fish—two fish, or in this case, two Fishers.)

So in one way Elizabeth Taylor has not changed: she has never gone to a psychiatrist in her life, preferring always to work out her own problems. But in many ways she is different from the Elizabeth Taylor I first met five years ago. She then owned many of the fundamental characteristics she owns now, of course: I found her to be refreshingly honest, extremely bright, strongly self-willed, tremendously affectionate and loyal to friends.

The "Full" Person Breaks Through

However, most of these characteristics were then so half-submerged that I remember having brisk arguments with Hollywood "experts" about some of them. For instance, my impression that she was intelligent was met with complete disbelief by many who had known her casually for years.

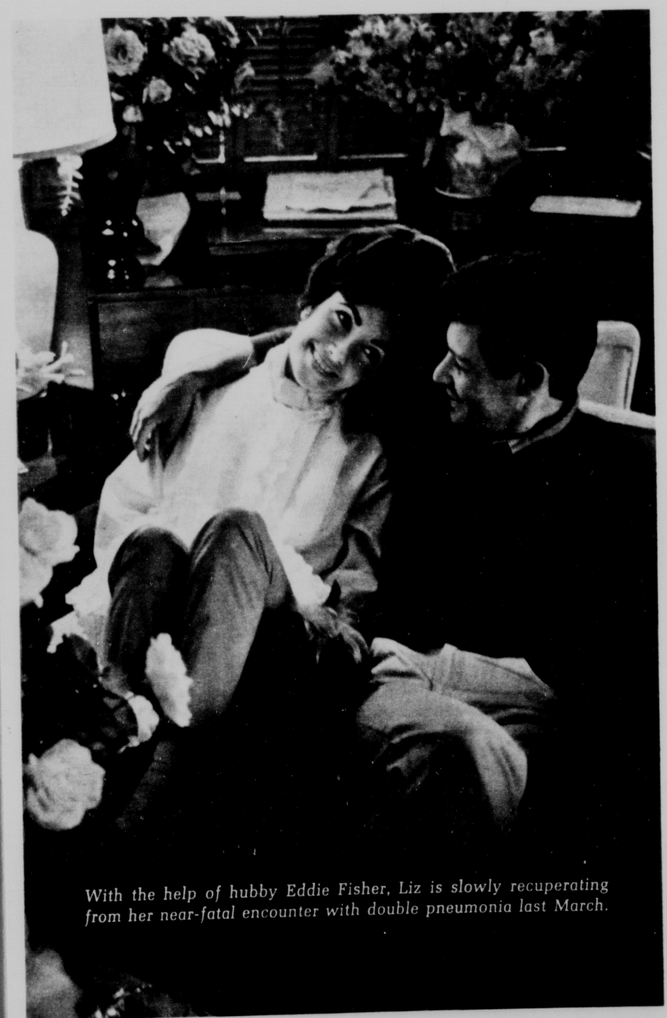

She's a beautiful body surrounding a vacuum, they said flatly. They had been fooled by her air of diffidence; since her star-childhood, she had been so accustomed to people wanting to use her for one purpose or another that she had adopted a protective armor of pleasant abstraction. While this placid attitude kept the publicity-seekers and money-makers at arm's length, it also gave them the erroneous idea that her head was empty.

Fortunately, I had been able to get past her diffidence; I had been able to rouse her interest in a story I was researching on her. Once interested, she held back little of her history or her feelings, so that I saw her much as a close friend might—and during that spring of 1956, without yet realizing it, she was living through the final months of her marriage to Michael Wilding.

One of their problems was that she continued to make more and more films, while he seemed indifferent to the fact that he was making fewer and fewer; often she went off to a day's work while he lay sunning himself beside their pool. Another problem was due to their joint buying binges—together they impulsively charged clothes, jewels, and automobiles, and as their debts mounted, their income leveled off.

A bigger problem was that, as he told others sadly in her presence, she had once looked upon him unquestioningly as the solver of all their quandaries; now she had begun making decisions without consulting him. Elizabeth replied angrily,

"You must remember, I'm not your daughter—I'm your wife!"

There is no doubt that she was ripe for the deeply meaningful relationship she entered into with producer Mike Todd shortly after meeting him. Throughout their 13-month marriage, terminated by his death in a plane crash, he helped bring to the surface all the portions of her total personality: her sense of humor, her appreciation of art and books, her curiosity about other lands and peoples, her need for religion, her pride in being a good actress—a pride which had lain dormant for all the years since, as an 8-year-old child, she had been led into an acting career by her mother and her studio.

He also brought out her zest for living. Perhaps more important than anything else, he made her realize that she must live not to please others but to suit her own needs—like anyone else in search of a satisfactory life, she must learn to think for herself.

Liz Uses the Formula

After his death and a following period of turmoil, she began to apply all the basic life-rules she had learned while he was still beside her. By this time she had become a truly self-assured entity.

In only one area has she remained unchanged, and there is some doubt that she ever will: this concerns her tendency toward recurrent illnesses, some of which may well be psychosomatic. One biographer itemized 56 varied illnesses, injuries, and accidents in the 13 years between 1947 and November, 1960.

Since then, she has suffered two more: meningism in December, 1960, and staphylococcus pneumonia three months later, in March of this year.

She has undergone nearly all of her ailments since her 15th birthday, and they have included a wild variety requiring hospitalization: a splinter of steel blown into one eye by a wind machine; a "twisted colon" due to hysterical grief over Jimmy Dean's death; a blood clot which formed behind one knee while she was wearing tight jodhpurs in a role; several sessions in traction for a slipped disc; a many-hour operation to remove a crushed spinal disc (a few days before marrying Mike Todd); tonsils removed (a few days before marrying Eddie Fisher).

Yet, despite her list of hospitalizations, she has more physical vigor than a prize fighter; otherwise, she could never have made such lightning recoveries. Furthermore, she has often gorged herself on gourmet food until she was 15 or 20 pounds overweight. Then, only 2½ weeks before starting a new picture, she would go on a starvation diet and lose all the excess weight in time to begin work. How? "I have coffee for breakfast, eggs for lunch, and steak for dinner—with pink grapefruit coming out of my ears."

Yet throughout the diet period she retains both vitality and a cheerful attitude.

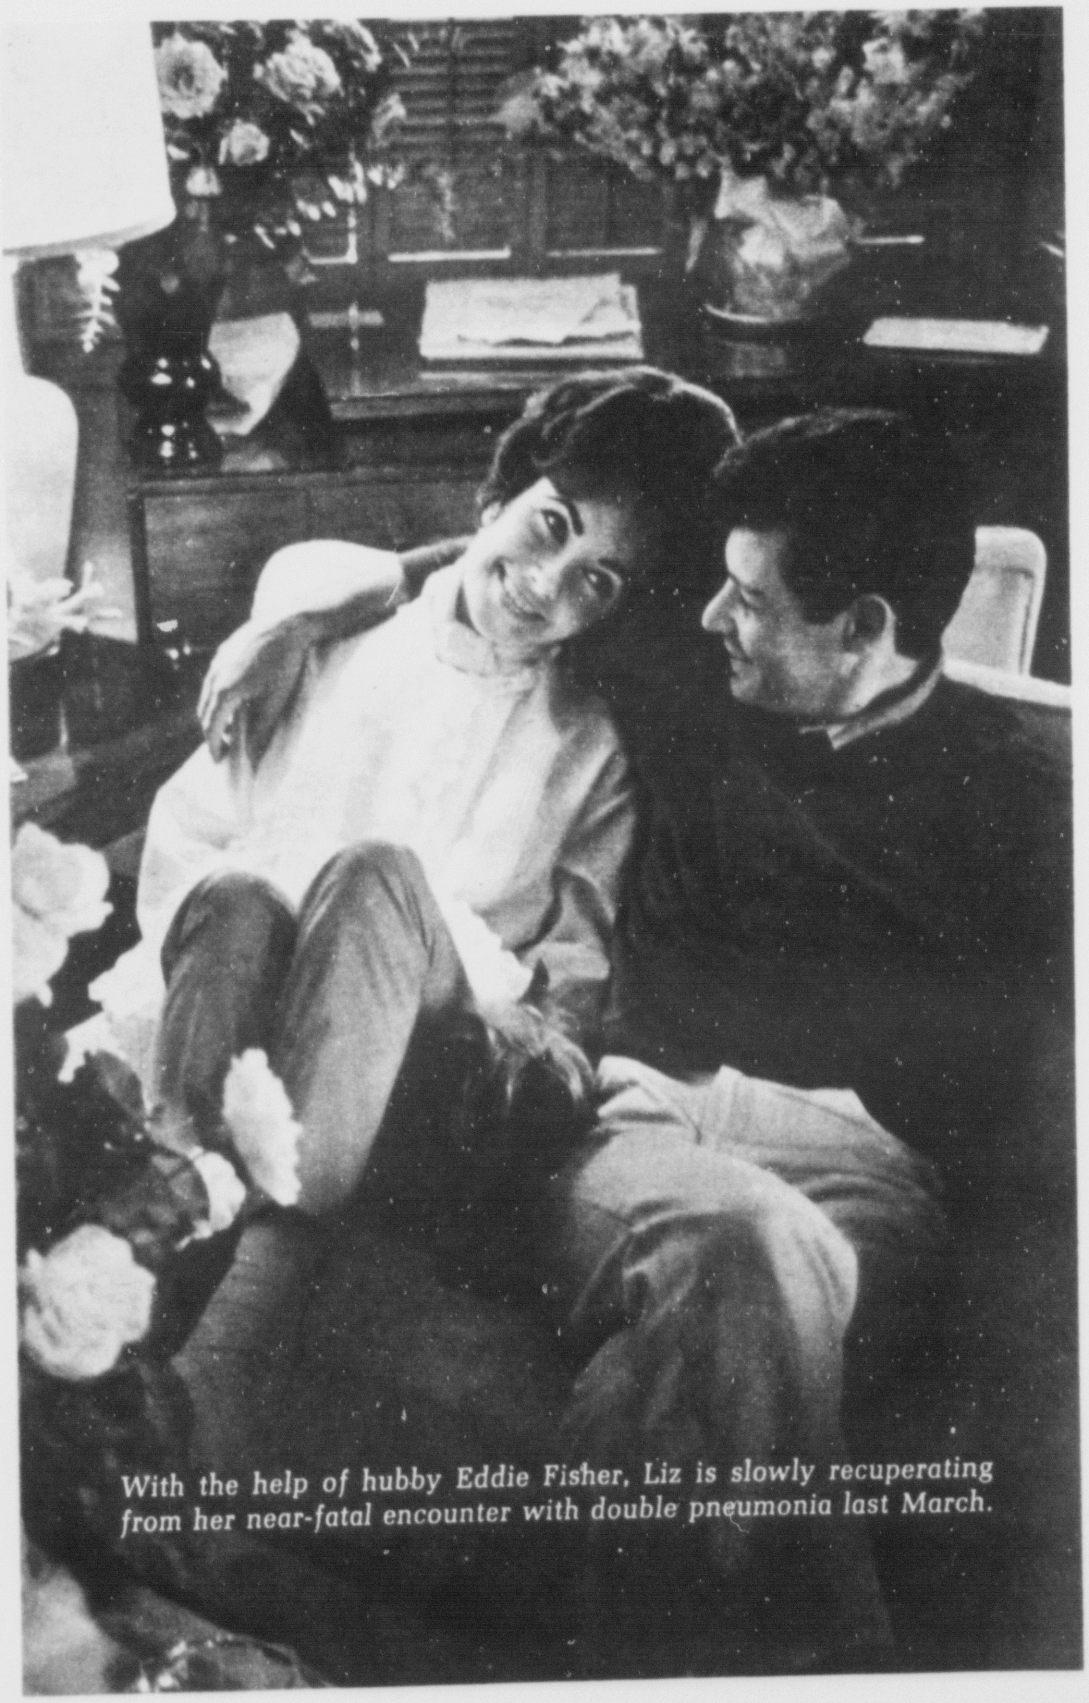

Looks to the Future

When I last talked to her, she was looking forward to attending Eddie Fisher's opening in Las Vegas. "I'll be well enough to be there with him," she said firmly. She also is looking forward to starting the picture "Cleopatra" once more. "I should be able to go to work on it in about six months," she said, "but not in England."

Yes, Elizabeth has changed in many ways in the five years I have known her. She has grown in knowledge, in experience, in self-confidence. She is now far more prepared to accept responsibility than she once was—including the responsibility of being Elizabeth Taylor, actress and woman, before the unblinking eyes of the world.

AYLOR

ing the more tumultuous periods of their recent life, she said, laughing, "How do you spell 'psychoanalyst'? Eddie and I use Pisces instead." (Pisces is the astrological sign for fish—two fish, or in this case, two Fishers.)

So in one way Elizabeth Taylor has not changed: she has never gone to a psychiatrist in her life, preferring always to work out her own problems. But in many ways she is different from the Elizabeth Taylor I first met five years ago. She then owned many of the fundamental characteristics she owns now, of course: I found her to be refreshingly honest, extremely bright, strongly self-willed, tremendously affectionate and loyal to friends.

The "Full" Person Breaks Through

However, most of these characteristics were then so half-submerged that I remember having brisk arguments with Hollywood "experts" about some of them. For instance, my impression that she was intelligent was met with complete disbelief by many who had known her casually for years.

She's a beautiful body surrounding a vacuum, they said flatly. They had been fooled by her air of diffidence; since her star-childhood, she had been so accustomed to people wanting to use her for one purpose or another that she had adopted a protective armor of pleasant abstraction. While this placid attitude kept the publicity-seekers and money-makers at arm's length, it also gave them the erroneous idea that her head was empty.

Fortunately, I had been able to get past her diffidence; I had been able to rouse her interest in a story I was researching on her. Once interested, she held back little of her history or her feelings, so that I saw her much as a close friend might—and during that spring of 1956, without yet realizing it, she was living through the final months of her marriage to Michael Wilding.

One of their problems was that she continued to make more and more films, while he seemed indifferent to the fact that he was making fewer and fewer; often she went off to a day's work while he lay sunning himself beside their pool. Another problem was due to their joint buying binges—together they impulsively charged clothes, jewels, and automobiles, and as their debts mounted, their income leveled off.

A bigger problem was that, as he told others sadly in her presence, she had once looked upon him unquestioningly as the solver of all their quandaries; now she had begun making decisions without consulting him. Elizabeth replied angrily,

"You must remember, I'm not your daughter—I'm your wife!"

There is no doubt that she was ripe for the deeply meaningful relationship she entered into with producer Mike Todd shortly after meeting him. Throughout their 13-month marriage, terminated by his death in a plane crash, he helped bring to the surface all the portions of her total personality: her sense of humor, her appreciation of art and books, her curiosity about other lands and peoples, her need for religion, her pride in being a good actress—a pride which had lain dormant for all the years since, as an 8-year-old child, she had been led into an acting career by her mother and her studio.

He also brought out her zest for living. Perhaps more important than anything else, he made her realize that she must live not to please others but to suit her own needs—like anyone else in search of a satisfactory life, she must learn to think for herself.

Liz Uses the Formula

After his death and a following period of turmoil, she began to apply all the basic life-rules she had learned while he was still beside her. By this time she had become a truly self-assured entity.

In only one area has she remained unchanged, and there is some doubt that she ever will: this concerns her tendency toward recurrent illnesses, some of which may well be psychosomatic. One biographer itemized 56 varied illnesses, injuries, and accidents in the 13 years between 1947 and November, 1960.

Since then, she has suffered two more: meningism in December, 1960, and staphylococcus pneumonia three months later, in March of this year.

Bon Voyage

MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor
Family Weekly Cookbook

Chicken-Rice Pacific

TO PREPARE: 40 MIN.

- 4 medium-sized fresh pineapples
- 4 cups cooked rice
- 4 cups cooked chicken
- 3 cups coarsely chopped Macadamia nuts or salted almonds
- ½ cup lime juice
- ⅔ cup honey
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 2 tablespoons, plus 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce

1. Split pineapples, including crowns (spiny tops), into halves lengthwise. Cut out core and discard; carefully remove and reserve the fruit from pineapple halves, leaving shells about ½ in. thick. Cut enough fruit into small chunks to make 4 cups.

2. Put pineapple chunks into a bowl. Add rice, chicken, and nuts and lightly toss to mix. Add a mixture of the remaining ingredients and toss to mix well. Chill until ready to serve.

3. Spoon rice mixture into pineapple shells. Garnish with lime slices. 8 servings

White Cap Coolers

Stir together 2 6-oz. cans undiluted frozen raspberry-lemon punch concentrate, 3 cups chilled pineapple juice, and 2 cups chilled papaya nectar. To serve, blend 1 qt. chilled ginger ale with fruit juice mixture; pour over ice in tall glasses. About 10 servings

Broiled Date Appetizers

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BROIL: 6-8 MIN.
(allow time for marinating)

- 2 cups (1 lb.) pitted fresh dates
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup orange juice
- 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

1. Put dates into a bowl. Mix together all remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to boiling, lower heat, and simmer 5 min.

2. Pour mixture over dates, cover, and let stand until cool. Refrigerate at least 24 hrs.

3. Wrap two dates in one-third slice of bacon and skewer with pick; repeat using all dates.

4. Broil 6 in. from heat, 6 to 8 min., or until bacon is crisp, turning once. About 24 appetizers

Olive-Ham Appetizers

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 30 MIN. TO BAKE: 10-12 MIN.

- ¾ cup ground cooked ham
- ½ cup chopped ripe olives
- 1 tablespoon thick sour cream
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Pastry for 1-crust pie
- 1 tablespoon caraway seed

1. Thoroughly mix first five ingredients.

2. Prepare pastry; divide into 6 equal portions and roll each portion into a 5x3-in. rectangle. Sprinkle about ½ teaspoon caraway seed over each; spread evenly with ham mixture.

3. Starting with long edge of each rectangle, roll up and pinch long edges to seal. Place on baking sheet, sealed edges down.

4. Bake at 450°F 10 to 12 min., or until appetizers are lightly browned. Slice rolls about ¾ in. thick. Serve hot. About 2½ doz. appetizers

Orange Cream Torte

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BAKE: 30-35 MIN.

- 5 egg yolks
- ½ cup sugar

- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- Orange Filling (see recipe)
- 1½ cups chilled whipping cream
- ¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract

1. Combine the first 5 ingredients in a large bowl and beat until thick and lemon colored.

2. Beat egg whites and salt until frothy; gradually add ½ cup sugar, beating well after each addition; beat until rounded peaks are formed.

3. Spread egg yolk mixture over beaten egg white mixture and gently fold together. Fold in the flour, sifting in about one-fourth at a time. Carefully turn batter into two 9-in. round layer-cake pans.

4. Bake at 325°F 30 to 35 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven and invert so edges of pans rest on edges of cooling racks, and allow cakes to hang in pans until cool. Remove from pans.

6. About an hour before serving, beat cream, using a chilled bowl and beater, until it stands in peaks when beater is slowly lifted upright; beat confectioners' sugar and extract in with the final few strokes.

7. Spread one layer with part of whipped cream. Place second layer, with filling side up, on top of cream. Cover sides and top with remaining whipped cream. Set aside in refrigerator until ready to serve. About 12 servings

Orange Filling

Mix together ¾ cup orange juice, ½ cup sugar, and 1 tablespoon grated orange peel. Beat 2 egg whites until frothy; gradually add ¼ cup sugar, beating well after each addition; beat until stiff (not dry) peaks are formed. Gently blend orange mixture into egg whites.

How sight-seeing helps your baby's eyes

- Bravery at the beach
- New "Baby Breakfast"

• A good idea in the early months is to let baby lie where he can practice looking—at people and things, not just the ceiling or the sides of a padded bassinet. Hang colorful toys at arm's length across his crib or, higher up, hang a mobile that he'll eagerly watch as it jiggles or sways.

• For several weeks baby's eyes will be "independent operators" and occasionally go their separate ways, with cross-eyed or wall-eyed effects that needn't alarm you. Eye muscle control develops gradually and at different ages—but most three-month-olds can focus both eyes straight at you most of the time. If baby's eyes cross very often after six months, your doctor may suggest seeing an eye specialist. Early treatment can be most effective.

• Baby "eats with his eyes," too, you know—so the color of food is important. This may be why Heinz golden-yellow Applesauce & Apricots is so popular with small fry. For a dish exciting as a "sundae," try it atop baby's cereal. Added attraction: contains vitamin A, which helps keep eyes healthy.

• An apple-based drink a day keeps vitamin C worries away—and gives your baby a delicious beverage, too! Fresh apple juice—pressed from luscious sun-ripened fruit and blended with other natural juices—makes fine refreshment. Fortified with vitamin C, Heinz apple-based juices are: Apple, Apple-Apricot, Apple-Grape, Apple-Pineapple, and Orange-Apple-Banana (a Heinz exclusive). Also rich in vitamin C: Heinz Strained Orange Juice.

• Cool idea on a hot day: serve your baby a hearty menu at breakfast—summer's coolest meal. He'll love Heinz tasty new "Baby Breakfast," Strained Ham & Egg Yolks. These tasty all-in-one breakfasts supply high-quality protein, blood-building iron, and several important vitamins. "Baby Breakfasts" come with those easy-to-open screw-on caps you now find on all Heinz Baby Foods.

• A timid baby at the beach gets braver much faster if she—or he—isn't hurried into the swim. Let baby "test" the water, one foot at a time, and retreat (with honor), if he's frightened. Your next problem may be keeping baby out of this exciting big bath tub!

HEINZ Baby Foods

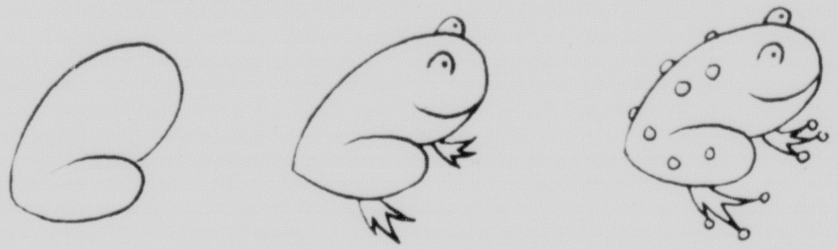

Only Heinz has convenient screw-on caps on all Strained and Junior Foods—including Meats and High Meat Dinners.

What Animal Is It? By Ruth Dixon

In faraway Australia and in Tasmania, too, live these queer, heavy, little bearlike animals who shuffle along on their small flat feet. They are three feet in length and are called marsupials, so they are related to the kangaroo, bandikoot, and opossum. The mothers of this family have a useful pouch in which they carry their babies.

These little creatures live mostly in holes in the rocks or in burrows that they dig with their long claws. Some burrows go underground 100 feet!

Farmers are not very fond of these animals because they come out at night and eat the farmers' crops, chewing them with their four front teeth (two above and two below). They also chew such things as grass, leaves, and roots.

Rules for Contest: Guess the animal's name and color the picture neatly in its true colors. Send within one week to Ruth Dixon, Junior Treasure Chest, Family Weekly, P.O. Box 7740, Chicago 80, Ill. Be sure to send your name, age, and address with your page. Prizes will be awarded to two boys and two girls for the best entries.

I was just thinking...

Leave me Mr. Laurel.

You can cherish the hat and cane, the sweater and newspaper, the grease paint and funny noses to your heart's content.

I'll take the little man with the lantern jaw, the bewildered eyes, and the freestanding hair. In all the years of our one-sided romance, I never knew him to make a sick joke, do a double-take, or assume any artifice other than his own dreamlike inability to cope with life, himself, and Mr. Hardy.

Long ago through the dim veil of remembrance, I recall Mr. Laurel on the motion-picture screen. Today I see him in television's reincarnation almost any day I choose. And I choose.

I do not blush to confess that I would rather watch Stanley Laurel's inept painting of a boat, hauling of a piano, or holding of a ladder than hear or see anything most of today's comics have to say or do. Nor do I hesitate to divulge the fact that I can sit alone and laugh aloud over the same flickering film I sat alone and laughed about last week and the week before.

Of course, it was slapstick when it was created. Of course, it was the simple improbabilities of motion-picture comedy in its infancy. By rights, I should be far too sophisticated now to chortle over the same Laurel and Hardy antics I adored in childhood.

But I am enchanted still. When Mr. Laurel ascends to an upper berth and undresses hopelessly in the netting hammock, when he saws away the flagpole on which Mr. Hardy perches in lumpy innocence, when he is overcome by foolish laughter during a crisis, all my tensions disappear. Mr. Laurel is my own incomprehensions, my own confusion, the world's silly but well-meant struggle.

It has been long since Mr. Laurel made a movie, long since his face appeared in print. It has been long since I sat in a theater in my organdy dress at a Saturday matinee.

But I didn't need television to recall the delight I shared with Mr. Laurel on the screen. It's more wonderful to remember laughter than to preserve tears.

Dear Mr. Laurel, I never stopped loving you.

How sight-seeing helps your baby's eyes

- Bravery at the beach
- New "Baby Breakfast"

• A good idea in the early months is to let baby lie where he can practice looking—at people and things, not just the ceiling or the sides of a padded bassinet. Hang colorful toys at arm's length across his crib or, higher up, hang a mobile that he'll eagerly watch as it jiggles or sways.

• For several weeks baby's eyes will be "independent operators" and occasionally go their separate ways, with cross-eyed or wall-eyed effects that needn't alarm you. Eye muscle control develops gradually and at different ages—but most three-month-olds can focus both eyes straight at you most of the time. If baby's eyes cross very often after six months, your doctor may suggest seeing an eye specialist. Early treatment can be most effective.

• Baby "eats with his eyes," too, you know—so the color of food is important. This may be why Heinz golden-yellow Applesauce & Apricots is so popular with small fry. For a dish exciting as a "sundae," try it atop baby's cereal. Added attraction: contains vitamin A, which helps keep eyes healthy.

• An apple-based drink a day keeps vitamin C worries away—and gives your baby a delicious beverage, too! Fresh apple juice—pressed from luscious sun-ripened fruit and blended with other natural juices—makes fine refreshment. Fortified with vitamin C, Heinz apple-based juices are: Apple, Apple-Apricot, Apple-Grape, Apple-Pineapple, and Orange-Apple-Banana (a Heinz exclusive). Also rich in vitamin C: Heinz Strained Orange Juice.

• Cool idea on a hot day: serve your baby a hearty menu at breakfast—summer's coolest meal. He'll love Heinz tasty new "Baby Breakfast," Strained Ham & Egg Yolks. These tasty all-in-one breakfasts supply high-quality protein, blood-building iron, and several important vitamins. "Baby Breakfasts" come with those easy-to-open screw-on caps you now find on all Heinz Baby Foods.

• A timid baby at the beach gets braver much faster if she—or he—isn't hurried into the swim. Let baby "test" the water, one foot at a time, and retreat (with honor), if he's frightened. Your next problem may be keeping baby out of this exciting big bath tub!

HEINZ Baby Foods

What Animal Is It? By Ruth Dixon

In faraway Australia and in Tasmania, too, live these queer, heavy, little bearlike animals who shuffle along on their small flat feet. They are three feet in length and are called marsupials, so they are related to the kangaroo, bandikoot, and opossum. The mothers of this family have a useful pouch in which they carry their babies.

These little creatures live mostly in holes in the rocks or in burrows that they dig with their long claws. Some burrows go underground 100 feet!

Farmers are not very fond of these animals because they come out at night and eat the farmers' crops, chewing them with their four front teeth (two above and two below). They also chew such things as grass, leaves, and roots.

What is their everyday name?

Rules for Contest: Guess the animal's name and color the picture neatly in its true colors. Send within one week to Ruth Dixon, Junior Treasure Chest, Family Weekly, P.O. Box 7740, Chicago 80, Ill. Be sure to send your name, age, and address with your page. Prizes will be awarded to two boys and two girls for the best entries.

WHO KILLED THE  MAN EVERYONE HATED?

Serge Rubinstein was a cheat in love and business; he until the night an intruder entered his locked mansion

IF, AS HAMLET remarks to his friend Horatio, "There's a divinity that shapes our ends," destiny worked overtime in the case of Serge Rubinstein.

He was born to be murdered.

His lifelong hero was Napoleon, whom he invariably impersonated at fancy-dress balls; the only photograph on the night stand beside Rubinstein's bed was one of himself dressed up as the Little Emperor. And, indeed, Thomas Jefferson's characterization of Napoleon in a letter to John Adams as "a cold-blooded, calculating, unprincipled usurper without a virtue," fitted Rubinstein as snugly as the trousers of his Napoleonic costume.

Serge Manuel Rubinstein de Rovello died in the predawn gloom of a January morning in 1955, in the opulent fortress of his New York town house and bedroom, his powerful 5'7" body clad in the pure silks he affected. He died as he had lived—violently, ruthlessly, mysteriously.

Violently, because his life had been squeezed out of him by the pressure of an unrelenting hand on a delicate neck bone.

Ruthlessly, because the killer had subjected him to a brutal taping of eyes, mouth, and neck, and a vicious binding of wrists and ankles with Venetian blind cord.

Mysteriously, because after more than six years his case remains the top-priority unsolved murder in the files of the New York City police department. The mystery is not the exclusive property of the Manhattan authorities. Rubinstein's death, like his life, registered seismic echoes around the world. His case is still "Open" in the files of Scotland Yard, the Sûreté, and the prefectures of Tangiers, Lisbon, and Hong Kong.

If it is true that anyone can be pushed to commit homicide, Rubinstein was a natural-born pusher. He made enemies in legions. He used and discarded beautiful women as other men toss away cigarettes. He mulcted thousands of small investors, blackmailed unwary businessmen, finagled financial tycoons into bankruptcy and ruin, to his own profit. Serge's obituary was read, not without satisfaction, by the hordes of persons he had victimized, and gave the police of New York City an embarrassment of riches—thousands of murder suspects.

JUST BEFORE HIS DEATH, as throughout his fantastic lifetime, the 47-year-old Rubinstein remained consistent. He spent his last day and night on earth pursuing his two major preoccupations: gunning for another fast million, and showing off a tall, beautiful girl friend—his taste ran to beauties a head taller than he.

The afternoon before his death he sat in on a business conference. Subject: international oil. Object: to swell the $10-25 million he had managed to amass through a career of sharp practice and sheer fraud.

Police later established that Rubinstein acted fidgety and tense that evening in the restaurant, as if he were worried about something. Witnesses ascribed his nervous-

Leave me Mr. Laurel.

You can cherish the hat and cane, the sweater and newspaper, the grease paint and funny noses to your heart's content.

I'll take the little man with the lantern jaw, the bewildered eyes, and the freestanding hair. In all the years of our one-sided romance, I never knew him to make a sick joke, do a double-take, or assume any artifice other than his own dreamlike inability to cope with life, himself, and Mr. Hardy.

Long ago through the dim veil of remembrance, I recall Mr. Laurel on the motion-picture screen. Today I see him in television's reincarnation almost any day I choose. And I choose.

I do not blush to confess that I would rather watch Stanley Laurel's inept painting of a boat, hauling of a piano, or holding of a ladder than hear or see anything most of today's comics have to say or do. Nor do I hesitate to divulge the fact that I can sit alone and laugh aloud over the same flickering film I sat alone and laughed about last week and the week before.

ness to the presence at a nearby table of two tough-looking customers, identity unknown, who seemed to be shadowing him.

But his tension may have been caused by nothing more significant than his failure to reach another of his girl friends, Pat Wray, a tall, chestnut-haired beauty who was his secretary.

The financier kept telephoning Miss Wray's apartment that evening without result. It was typical of him that, while dining with one of his female favorites, he persisted in trying to reach another.

Little Napoleon demanded absolute fidelity from his long-stemmed girl friends, a code from which he characteristically exempted himself. Pat Wray told police rather sadly that even she, one of his favorites, had come under a cloud a few months earlier. Suspecting her of entertaining other men secretly (as he entertained other women openly), he had had a wire tap planted in her apartment—one microphone being hidden under her bed. She had found out about it when he played the tapes back to her, cross-examining her about certain conversations with friends.

"He was possessive," Miss Wray told reporters. "Not that he wanted to spend all his time with me. But he just didn't want other men spending time in my company."

The wire tap was Rubinstein's stock-in-trade. Through its unscrupulous use he was able not only to check up on his women but to gather confidential information for his blackmailing schemes. He was popularly supposed to have hidden away an arsenal of secrets explosive enough to blow the lid off café society and tumble financial empires.

When he left the restaurant with Estelle Gardner, they taxied to his six-story town house on Fifth Avenue, where he lived with his 78-year-old mother and an aged aunt. The time was 1:40 a.m. on January 27.

"We went up to his study," Miss Gardner later said, "and Serge walked over to a chessboard he always kept out and made a move. He would always do that. He loved chess. Sometimes I had the feeling he played people that way, too."

MISS GARDNER told police that she remained in the house only about 15 minutes. Then Rubinstein sent her home in a cab—and telephoned Pat Wray once more. This time he reached her. She was asleep, Miss Wray explained, when he phoned. He tried to get her to taxi over for a middle-of-the-night date, but she was tired, turned him down, and went back to sleep.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, William Morter, the financier's butler, entered the bedroom and found his employer's stocky body on the floor. From the taped face and the bound hands and feet, it was clear that he had been murdered.

The early investigation was in charge of veteran Inspector Edward T. Feeley. From the absence of evidence of a struggle —Rubinstein had been a powerful man— Inspector Feeley concluded that he was attacked in his sleep.

THE MAN EVERYONE HATED

But why the taping of mouth, eyes, and neck, leaving only the nostrils exposed? The medical examiner pointed out that, during World War II, the Japanese military had used an identical technique to make prisoners talk. They merely squeezed the helpless victim's nostrils, cutting off his air supply. Rather than be asphyxiated, prisoners talked.

Had the murderer been trying to pry some of Rubinstein's valuable secrets from him? Had the pressure on the financier's neck bone been part of the torture? The death itself could have been the result of the intruder's overenthusiasm.

Equally challenging was the question of how Rubinstein's killer had entered the premises. Inspector Feeley's men found it a virtual fortress. Ground-floor windows were steel-barred. An eight-foot spiked iron fence surrounded the back yard, and all outside doors had been found locked.

But then the investigators discovered that Rubinstein had presented house keys to female favorites and business associates. This made every key holder an automatic suspect.

Giving keys away seemed a foolhardy practice for a man with so many enemies, but Rubinstein's Napoleonic complex had made him contemptuous of the human race generally. He had shrugged off any suggestion of hiring bodyguards; they would have interfered with his "personal life."

If the 50 detectives investigating Rubinstein's murder were bogged down in the welter of suspects, leads, and theories as to what lay behind the killing, at least one man was convinced he knew. Stanley T. Stanley, a business intimate of Rubinstein's, told police, "This was a paid killing, a mob job."

Stanley claimed that Rubinstein had had the temerity to pull some of his financial shenanigans on several organizations run by gangsters, as a result of which "the mob" had lost a great deal of money. Not long before, Stanley said, he and Rubinstein had had a mysterious phone call threatening "to bring a mob from San Francisco to kill us."

Stanley was convinced that this was the key to Rubinstein's murder and, since he had also been involved, that he was next on the list. He lived in such terror of gangland vengeance that the tabloids dubbed him "The Frightened Man." He followed Rubinstein to the grave in less than four months, the victim of his own fears. He died of a heart attack.

As far as evidence went, the mobster theory had neither more nor less substance than dozens of others, in most of which Rubinstein figured as an inevitable victim of revenge.

HE HAD BEEN BORN in Russia during the Czarist regime. His father Dmitri had been a financial magician, adviser to Czar Nicholas and reputedly a moneylender to the mad monk, Rasputin. The Bolshevik revolution sent the Rubinsteins fleeing to Finland, penniless except for some of Mrs. Rubinstein's jewels, which she had sewn into little Serge's coat.

Dmitri, however, recouped his fortune by buying Czarist rubles from refugees at a fraction of their face value. Then he started a rumor that the White Russians were overthrowing the revolutionists and that the Czar was returning to power. The aristocrats frantically bought back their rubles at fantastically high rates. By the time they learned the rumors were false, Dmitri was in Vienna, a rich man again. It was from his father that Serge learned his trade.

Rubinstein once explained his secret. "It's very simple. I figure out how much a company is worth dead, not living." Translated, this meant that he bought out an ailing company for a song; then, instead of trying to rehabilitate it, he sold everything it owned—plant, equipment, patents—at a huge profit, in the process throwing all its employees out of work and pulling the rug from under its stockholders.

At 25, Serge was a millionaire in his own right. He was already notorious in the financial world. The extent of his agility in double-dealing may be gauged by the fact that the then Premier Pierre Laval, no amateur himself at double-dealing, virtuously kicked Rubinstein out of France for playing fast and profitable games with the franc.

In London, Rubinstein promptly pulled off his gigantic Chosen Corp. coup. This company, which operated three gold mines in Korea, opened up to Rubinstein's machinations like an obliging oyster. The other stockholders dazedly found themselves $776,000 poorer; by the time he tossed the oyster aside, Rubinstein had sucked almost $6 million out of it.

The Japanese at one time tried to prevent Serge from taking his money out of the country, but Rubinstein bribed a bank official to slip $1 million out of the frozen account. He smuggled out the cash—some 27,000 100-yen notes—by stuffing it in cardboard cylinders around which silk was being exported. And he got added revenge on the Japanese by dumping the cash in such a way that the yen's value fell on the world market.

LITTLE NAPOLEON made his entry into the United States in 1938—characteristically by fraud, using a Portuguese passport. Rubinstein professed a great love for the United States—until the war. Then he found it expedient to assert his Portuguese "citizenship," and managed to evade the draft while he made more millions during the industrial boom years of the world conflict. It was not until 1949 that the U.S. Government, after a three-year legal struggle, was able to jail him for two years.

Even while a jailbird, Rubinstein's conniving mind found a way to protect his fortune against the only woman he had ever married. His wife, Laurette, was suing him for divorce, charging cruelty. Serge wrote to her: "If you do not write to me and say kind things, I will hang myself in my cell, and it will be on your conscience the rest of your life."

Naïvely, Laurette Rubinstein obliged, writing "kind things." He then used her letter in the divorce court to rebut her legal charge of cruelty! She won her divorce and custody of their two children, but Serge's millions remained his.

Rubinstein's draft-dodging followed him from prison. He was insulted on the streets; his pet clubs refused him admittance; people who had winked at his piracy in love and finance turned their backs on him. His reaction was, as always, Napoleonic: he would become the world's richest man and make them all lick his boots.

But as 1955 began, Serge Rubinstein was in trouble again. The office of the U.S. Attorney General had virtually won its three-year battle in the courts to have him deported.

The Little Emperor was undaunted. "I love America even if it doesn't love me," the multimillionaire draft dodger asserted.

But somebody got to him before the U.S. Immigration authorities—in the small hours of January 27, 1955.

Several weeks ago a high official of the New York police department was interviewed for this FAMILY WEEKLY article.

"The Department has a hundred suspects and a hundred motives," the inspector said. "They come from all over the world." He named familiar names—in finance, in society, in gossip columns. And names the public has never heard of—little people who Serge Rubinstein had never known existed but whose lives he had wrecked nevertheless.

"They all wanted him dead," the inspector said with a shrug. "Take your pick."

ILLUSTRATION BY N. BAER

At 8 a.m., butler William Morter entered the bedroom; his master lay on the floor, eyes taped, limbs bound. Obviously he had been murdered.

ness to the presence at a nearby table of two tough-looking customers, identity unknown, who seemed to be shadowing him.

But his tension may have been caused by nothing more significant than his failure to reach another of his girl friends, Pat Wray, a tall, chestnut-haired beauty who was his secretary.

The financier kept telephoning Miss Wray's apartment that evening without result. It was typical of him that, while dining with one of his female favorites, he persisted in trying to reach another.

Little Napoleon demanded absolute fidelity from his long-stemmed girl friends, a code from which he characteristically exempted himself. Pat Wray told police rather sadly that even she, one of his favorites, had come under a cloud a few months earlier. Suspecting her of entertaining other men secretly (as he entertained other women openly), he had had a wire tap planted in her apartment—one microphone being hidden under her bed. She had found out about it when he played the tapes back to her, cross-examining her about certain conversations with friends.

"He was possessive," Miss Wray told reporters. "Not that he wanted to spend all his time with me. But he just didn't want other men spending time in my company."

The wire tap was Rubinstein's stock-in-trade. Through its unscrupulous use he was able not only to check up on his women but to gather confidential information for his blackmailing schemes. He was popularly supposed to have hidden away an arsenal of secrets explosive enough to blow the lid off café society and tumble financial empires.

When he left the restaurant with Estelle Gardner, they taxied to his six-story town house on Fifth Avenue, where he lived with his 78-year-old mother and an aged aunt. The time was 1:40 a.m. on January 27.

"We went up to his study," Miss Gardner later said, "and Serge walked over to a chessboard he always kept out and made a move. He would always do that. He loved chess. Sometimes I had the feeling he played people that way, too."

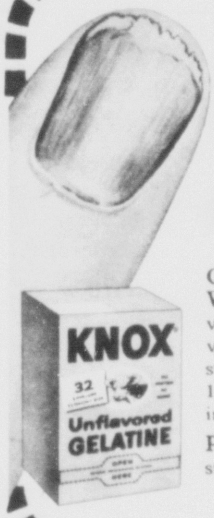

MISS GARDNER told police that she remained in the house only about 15 minutes. Then Rubinstein sent her home in a cab—and telephoned Pat Wray once more. This time he reached her. She was asleep, Miss Wray explained, when he phoned. He tried to get her to taxi over for a middle-of-the-night date, but she was tired, turned him down, and went back to sleep.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, William Morter, the financier's butler, entered the bedroom and found his employer's stocky body on the floor. From the taped face and the bound hands and feet, it was clear that he had been murdered.

The early investigation was in charge of veteran Inspector Edward T. Feeley. From the absence of evidence of a struggle —Rubinstein had been a powerful man— Inspector Feeley concluded that he was attacked in his sleep.

"I am sorry to hear about her trouble," he said. "How long has she been confined in the hospital?"

"Well, let's see," said the harried friend, glancing at the sink, "it's been about three complete sets of dishes so far."

"Everything is big out here," he commented. "Even the name of your ranch—'Easy-J, 2-Bar-3, Leaning-7.' Is your herd big, too?"

But why the taping of mouth, eyes, and neck, leaving only the nostrils exposed? The medical examiner pointed out that, during World War II, the Japanese military had used an identical technique to make prisoners talk. They merely squeezed the helpless victim's nostrils, cutting off his air supply. Rather than be asphyxiated, prisoners talked.

Had the murderer been trying to pry some of Rubinstein's valuable secrets from him? Had the pressure on the financier's neck bone been part of the torture? The death itself could have been the result of the intruder's overenthusiasm.

Equally challenging was the question of how Rubinstein's killer had entered the premises. Inspector Feeley's men found it a virtual fortress. Ground-floor windows were steel-barred. An eight-foot spiked iron fence surrounded the back yard, and all outside doors had been found locked.

But then the investigators discovered that Rubinstein had presented house keys to female favorites and business associates. This made every key holder an automatic suspect.

Giving keys away seemed a foolhardy practice for a man with so many enemies, but Rubinstein's Napoleonic complex had made him contemptuous of the human race generally. He had shrugged off any suggestion of hiring bodyguards; they would have interfered with his "personal life."

If the 50 detectives investigating Rubinstein's murder were bogged down in the welter of suspects, leads, and theories as to what lay behind the killing, at least one man was convinced he knew. Stanley T. Stanley, a business intimate of Rubinstein's, told police, "This was a paid killing, a mob job."

Stanley claimed that Rubinstein had had the temerity to pull some of his financial shenanigans on several organizations run by gangsters, as a result of which "the mob" had lost a great deal of money. Not long before, Stanley said, he and Rubinstein had had a mysterious phone call threatening "to bring a mob from San Francisco to kill us."

Stanley was convinced that this was the key to Rubinstein's murder and, since he had also been involved, that he was next on the list. He lived in such terror of gangland vengeance that the tabloids dubbed him "The Frightened Man." He followed Rubinstein to the grave in less than four months, the victim of his own fears. He died of a heart attack.

As far as evidence went, the mobster theory had neither more nor less substance than dozens of others, in most of which Rubinstein figured as an inevitable victim of revenge.

HE HAD BEEN BORN in Russia during the Czarist regime. His father Dmitri had been a financial magician, adviser to Czar Nicholas and reputedly a moneylender to the mad monk, Rasputin. The Bolshevik revolution sent the Rubinsteins fleeing to Finland, penniless except for some of Mrs. Rubinstein's jewels, which she had sewn into little Serge's coat.

Dmitri, however, recouped his fortune by buying Czarist rubles from refugees at a fraction of their face value. Then he started a rumor that the White Russians were overthrowing the revolutionists and that the Czar was returning to power. The aristocrats frantically bought back their rubles at fantastically high rates. By the time they learned the rumors were false, Dmitri was in Vienna, a rich man again. It was from his father that Serge learned his trade.

Rubinstein once explained his secret. "It's very simple. I figure out how much a company is worth dead, not living." Translated, this meant that he bought out an ailing company for a song; then, instead of trying to rehabilitate it, he sold everything it owned—plant, equipment, patents—at a huge profit, in the process throwing all its employees out of work and pulling the rug from under its stockholders.

At 25, Serge was a millionaire in his own right. He was already notorious in the financial world. The extent of his agility in double-dealing may be gauged by the fact that the then Premier Pierre Laval, no amateur himself at double-dealing, virtuously kicked Rubinstein out of France for playing fast and profitable games with the franc.

In London, Rubinstein promptly pulled off his gigantic Chosen Corp. coup. This company, which operated three gold mines in Korea, opened up to Rubinstein's machinations like an obliging oyster. The other stockholders dazedly found themselves $776,000 poorer; by the time he tossed the oyster aside, Rubinstein had sucked almost $6 million out of it.

The Japanese at one time tried to prevent Serge from taking his money out of the country, but Rubinstein bribed a bank official to slip $1 million out of the frozen account. He smuggled out the cash—some 27,000 100-yen notes—by stuffing it in cardboard cylinders around which silk was being exported. And he got added revenge on the Japanese by dumping the cash in such a way that the yen's value fell on the world market.

LITTLE NAPOLEON made his entry into the United States in 1938—characteristically by fraud, using a Portuguese passport. Rubinstein professed a great love for the United States—until the war. Then he found it expedient to assert his Portuguese "citizenship," and managed to evade the draft while he made more millions during the industrial boom years of the world conflict. It was not until 1949 that the U.S. Government, after a three-year legal struggle, was able to jail him for two years.

Even while a jailbird, Rubinstein's conniving mind found a way to protect his fortune against the only woman he had ever married. His wife, Laurette, was suing him for divorce, charging cruelty. Serge wrote to her: "If you do not write to me and say kind things, I will hang myself in my cell, and it will be on your conscience the rest of your life."

Naïvely, Laurette Rubinstein obliged, writing "kind things." He then used her letter in the divorce court to rebut her legal charge of cruelty! She won her divorce and custody of their two children, but Serge's millions remained his.

Rubinstein's draft-dodging followed him from prison. He was insulted on the streets; his pet clubs refused him admittance; people who had winked at his piracy in love and finance turned their backs on him. His reaction was, as always, Napoleonic: he would become the world's richest man and make them all lick his boots.

But as 1955 began, Serge Rubinstein was in trouble again. The office of the U.S. Attorney General had virtually won its three-year battle in the courts to have him deported.
